Says Third Term Fight Not Issue Under Hatch Act

Head of Group Tells Senators No Candidate Involved in Drive

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Samuel B. Fettengill contended today that his Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government could campaign against a "third term for any president" without regard to the Hatch act or the federal corrupt practices act.

Pettengill, former Democratic congressman from Indiana, argued before Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) of the senate campaign investigating committee, that his organization was not a "political committee," and thus not amenable to the laws regulating political groups.

His stand was disputed by Sol A. Rosenblatt, Democratic national committee counsel, who urged grand jury attention to any evidence the senate committee had on activities of the organization headed by Pettengill.

Gillette, who conducted the committee hearing alone, said Rosenblatt's request would be presented to the full committee membership later.

Asked Contributions

Pettengill testified that the organization was not a political committee although openly opposed to a third presidential term, because it was not concerned with candidates but only with a constitutional issue.

Pettengill, under questioning, said that the committee had asked contributions for a $150,000-fund to finance anti-third term appeals to 25,000,000 persons through newspaper advertisements and direct mail.

The witness said the organization had not reported its contributions or expenditures to the secretary of the house, because it had the opinion of John W. Davis, former Democratic candidate for president, that it was not a political committee within bounds of federal law.

Rosenblatt charged that the paid newspaper appeals of the committee had been labelled "political advertisement," that one member of the committee was a "former convict who was found guilty of espionage;" and that contributors to the committee received a "no third term" button used to aid the Republican candidate.

'DRAFT DODGER' SENTENCED—Michael John Caffie (right), '29, is shown in New Orleans en route to prison after he was given a federal sentence of three years for failure to register for selective military service. He is handcuffed to Benjamin Simon, of New York, impersonator in the bankruptcy case of F. Donald Coster-Musica.

Alumni Return to See Lawrence Battle Coe

Lawrence alumni began arriving today in considerable numbers for the annual homecoming weekend, headlined by tomorrow afternoon's gridiron battle between the Vikings and Coe college.

Those who were directing the homecoming program were hoping that tomorrow's weather is like today's. The weatherman spoke of "scattered light showers" Saturday, but this was not discouraging.

President Thomas N. Barrows, Coach Bernie Heselton, Jack White, student representative, and Cliff Osen, 9-letter man in the class of '37, representing the alumni, will be among the speakers at tonight's pep meeting which starts at 7.30 on the river bank behind the college.

Lawrence college frosh were scheduled to meet St. Norbert yearlings this afternoon on Whiting field. The judging of fraternity house decorations was scheduled for 5.30 this afternoon and for 7:15 this evening when they will be illuminated.

Students gathered at Memorial chapel this morning for a pep session under the direction of Saburo Watanabe, student from Hawaii. The pep band, inter-fraternity and inter-sorority choirs, and a trio provided entertainment.

The annual parade of fraternity and sorority floats will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from the college campus. The procession will move through the city's business district. The Appleton Post-Crescent is awarding trophies for fraternity and sorority floats and for fraternity house decorations.

Between halves of Saturday afternoon's homecoming game, President Barrows will award an "L" blanket to Charles A. Beyer, coach at Rockford (Ill.) High school. Beyer was an outstanding athlete at Lawrence, graduating in 1912.

Following the game, dormitories and fraternities will hold open house. Alumni will gather for their homecoming banquet Saturday evening at Hotel Appleton, going from there to the Alexander gymnasium for the homecoming dance.

School Merger Law Is Argued

Appeals in Three Cases Before Court In Adams County

Friendship, Wis. — (AP)—Constitutionality of a 1939 legislative enactment authorizing the state superintendent of schools to consolidate small school districts was argued today before Circuit Judge George Leicht of Wausau.

Acting under the authority granted him, John Callahan, state school superintendent, reduced the number of Adams county school districts from 84 to 29 last summer. Numerous appeals were taken to the circuit court.

The court heard appeals in three of the cases today. They involved District 3 in the town of Adams, Joint District 5 of the towns of Easton and Quincy, and Joint District 9 of the town and city of Adams.

Arguments on the merits of demurrers filed by the state against the complaints occupied Judge Leicht during this morning's session of court.

Carol Appeals to U. S. Government

Washington —(AP)— Former King Carol of Rumania appealed to the United States government today to intercede in behalf of himself and members of his party now held under detention in Seville, Spain.

The king's request was transmitted to the state department by the American legation in Lisbon, Portugal, after Jean Pangal, former Rumanian minister to Portugal, had asked the legation to forward the appeal to President Roosevelt.

State department officials had no immediate comment to make on the request, or what action, if any, this government might take.

Carol, his friend, Madam Magda Lupescu, and Ernst Urdareanu, former minister of the palace in Bucharest, were placed under virtual arrest Tuesday and are under guard at their hotel in Seville.

British Destroyer, German and Italian Boats Reported Sunk

London —(AP)— The admiralty announced tonight the loss of a British destroyer, victim of a German mine, and the sinking of a German torpedo boat and an Italian supply ship by British submarines.

The Swordfish was credited with sending the nazi torpedo boat to the bottom off the French coast, while the destruction of the Italian ship, of 6,000 tons, was credited to the Regent.

These victories were cited as "examples. . . . of the continuous pressure which British naval forces maintain on coastal communications in enemy waters."

The lost British destroyer was identified as the Venetia, 1,090 tons, completed in 1917 and carrying a normal complement of 134 men.

Waves of Nazi Planes Again Attack London

Buses and Street Cars Smashed; R. A. F. Raids Objectives in Reich

London—(AP)—Bombs rained out of a cloud-flecked sky in one of the heaviest series of daytime raids on London today, smashing street cars and buses during the city's morning rush hour, and leaving crowded thoroughfares strewn with dead, injured and ruins.

Heavy formations, some of them numbering 100 planes, came over in the day's attacks on the capital.

The air ministry said 12 German planes were destroyed in the day's battles, while eight British fighters were lost, the pilots of four of them landing safely.

One bomb crashed between two street cars, wrecking them and killing and injuring more than a score of persons. Other explosives hit behind the street cars, damaging a third street car. A bus was wrecked.

Yet other high explosives struck near a police station, wrecking nearby structures, and near an air-raid shelter, leaving many injured in the street.

Flats and shops were demolished and huge buildings were jarred by the blasts.

Bombs in Many Areas

Associated Press correspondents telephoned from various parts of the city that bombs were falling nearby as the raiders maneuvered skillfully in a sunlit sky scattered with clouds.

The nazi raiders stabbed twice at London in quick succession during the forenoon after a comparatively quiet night.

The third alarm of the day came near mid-day.

One of the street cars hit during the morning rush-hour raid was

Murders Child, Gives Self Up

'Wanted to Kill Ever Since Last October,' Prisoner Asserts

Cincinnati —(AP)— A man walked into Central Police station today, and declared "I've wanted to kill someone ever since last October," then led officers to the body of 10-year-old Clarence Stevens, in the basement of Holy Name school in residential Mount Auburn.

Detective Chief Emmett D. Kirgan said the boy, a third-grade pupil in the school, had been stabbed to death.

The suspect's shirt was blood-stained. He gave his age as 27.

Major Edgar Hartman said the man walked up to him, calmly announced "I've just killed a boy in Holy Name school," and added "I stabbed him."

"If you killed someone," Hartman countered, "where's the blood?"

The man rolled back one coat sleeve to show a wet stain.

Sergeant William Burks and members of the homicide squad loaded the suspect into a cruiser and sped to the school.

In a storeroom in the rear of the basement they found the boy's body—under it a butcher knife.

Major Hartman identified the suspect as Guy Willie Pender, who has been employed as a dishwasher at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Italians Join in Aerial Raids on British Regions

Claim 'Successes' In Attacks Upon Port Facilities

Berlin —(AP)— Italian planes for the first time have joined German raiders in operations against England, the German high command announced today.

The Italians started from bases in "occupied territory in the framework of the German air force's fighting operations" against the British, a communique said, adding:

"Through well-aimed bombs they scored great successes against port facilities in the east of the British isle."

While the Germans and Italians were striking at port, industrial and traffic facilities, the high command said, British bombers attacked Berlin and the German port of Hamburg during the night, leaving a number of dead and injured.

Fires were set and other property damage resulted in the harbor and some sections of Hamburg, the communique said.

In Berlin, British bombs caused several fires, "light" damage to houses and a "bigger fire" in a lumberyard.

Say 5 Planes Downed

Authorities declared only single planes managed to fly over the city proper, others having been turned away toward the north and south by outlying anti-aircraft artillery.

The attacking planes, flying through low - hanging clouds, "dropped explosive and incendiary bombs at several places upon residential sections, workers' settle-

Doomed Man Gets Stay of Execution

Jefferson City, Mo. —(AP)— Governor Lloyd Stark yesterday granted a stay of execution for Oscar "Buck" Ashworth, former Green Bay, Wis., garage mechanic, scheduled to die today for the kidnaping and attempted assault of a 7-year-old girl.

Ashworth has been held in Missouri state prison since August, 1938, when he was convicted of kidnaping a St. Joseph, Mo., girl. He was captured in Green Bay, while hiding in the attic of a woman friend.

Milwaukeean Bound Over for Trial in Highway Accident

Madison —(AP)— J. Saxton Morgan, 31, of Milwaukee, was bound over to circuit court for trial on a manslaughter charge at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing in superior court today.

The charge was based on a report of Dane county highway police that Morgan's car struck and killed Lawrence Drew, 16, of Glen Oak Hills, near here last Labor day.

Testimony disclosed the youth and two companions, Ernest Nelson and Robert Lens, were walking along the highway in the direction the car was moving when young Drew was hit.

Arguing for dismissal of the charge, George Kroncke, Jr., counsel for Morgan, contended the testimony failed to show an offense had been committed. He said pedestrians should walk on the left of a road and off the traveled portion.

Judge Roy H. Proctor upheld District Attorney Norris E. Maloney's motion to bind Morgan over for trial.

Find Iron Mountain Man Guilty of Slaying Clerk

Iron Mountain, Mich. — (AP) — A circuit court jury last night returned a verdict of second degree murder against Peter Bouchard, 36, of Iron Mountain, charged with the fatal shooting of a department store clerk last July 3.

The clerk, Donald Walters, 32, was shot as he accused Bouchard's brother, Leo, 26, of petty thefts in the store. Policeman Henry Trottier suffered a flesh wound.

Bouchard told Police Chief Gust Hassell that he had been drinking "and something came over me."

Wife-Slayer Fails To Win New Trial

The slaying occurred July 6. After White had been in the state prison, where he was sentenced for life, for 50 days, he was ordered transferred to the Central Hospital for the criminally Insane.

Roosevelt to Serve Full Term if He's Reelected

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt told his press conference today that he intended to serve out the whole four years if he is elected to a third term.

The president made the statement in reply to a reporter's question concerning his speech Wednesday night in Philadelphia in which the president said his objective in the next four years would be to make work for every young man and woman "a living fact."

The reporter asked:

"Does this mean that, God willing, you intend to serve the full four-year term if reelected?"

"Of course," Mr. Roosevelt responded with a smile.

He then volunteered that the newsmen could quote him directly on that, and added he was glad the reporter had put in "God willing."

No Early Midwest Trip

The president, in response to further questioning, repeated that as long as the international situation continues as it is at present, he would not go more than 12 hours away from Washington to campaign.

He made this reply when asked whether he would go to Chicago before the eletcion and added that there had been a misunderstaning about plans for a western trip.

Governor John Stelle of Illinois had indicated that Mr. Roosevelt might go to that state before election.

The president said that if the foreign situation eased up there were many places he would like to go, including the middle west and Warm Springs, Ga., for Thanksgiving.

3 Convicts in Federal Court

Duce Also to Confer With French Chief

Vichy, France—(AP)—Marshal Philippe Petain returned at 7:30 p. m. (12:30 p. m., C.S.T.) from his conference with Adolf Hitler and went directly to his office in the government hotel.

Bern, Switzerland—(AP)—A meeting between Premier Mussolini and Marshal Petain and another conference between Mussolini and Adolf Hitler are likely in the near future as the axis campaign to establish a "new order" for Europe develops, informed diplomatic sources said today.

Reports reaching Bern by diplomatic channels despite the secrecy maintained by Berlin and Vichy said the Italian premier might meet the French chief of state on the border of the small Italian-occupied zone of France just as Petain was received by Hitler yesterday in a border zone.

Vichy, France — (AP) — Marshal Philippe Petain, France's 84-year-old chief of state, was expected to return to Vichy today to inform his ministers on the outcome of an historic meeting with Adolf Hitler upon which, a government announcement said, "the situation of the nation and its future in large measure depend."

Official silence cloaked the nature of the negotiations which took place in a railway car somewhere in German-occupied France yesterday, but the public divined from Petain's unprecedented action that major changes in France's position was brewing.

Hidden also were the results of Hitler's conference Wednesday on the French-Spanish frontier with Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

So fast have events moved already that observers here believed an announcement of France's new place in the European order being planned by the axis powers would be forthcoming quickly.

Informed sources, however, said that while Petain had authority to make an agreement with Hitler it was likely he would explain the making a definite commitment.

Tighter Censorship

Vichy was almost breathless with excitement over the rapid-fire trend of events and speculation was increased by imposition of new and more stringent censorship in connection with the current negotiations.

All the temporary capital really knew was that Petain, accompanied by Vice Premier Pierre Laval, had crossed into the occupied zone yesterday morning where he had received military honors from German soldiers, talked with nazi generals and late in the afternoon had a long conference with Hitler in what a communique described as "impressive surroundings."

Communiques describing these events were issued only after German agencies had published similar announcements of the meeting.

The negotiations which culminated in the first interview between the nazi fuehrer and a French chief of state began only five days ago when Laval left Vichy for Paris apparently to discuss with German officials the possible return of the French government to Paris.

Two days later the French government broke its silence on Laval's visit to announce his meeting with Hitler.

On his return to Vichy, Laval conferred Wednesday for several hours with Petain and later attended a meeting of leading cabinet ministers. He left them several times to confer again with the marshal. Fog halted his scheduled return that night to Paris so he started out early yesterday morning—but with him went France's highest official, Petain.

15,000 Start Walkout in St. Louis Area

Seek Unionization Of Building Workers Throughout County

St. Louis—(AP)— Fifteen thousand building trades workmen of the American Federation of Labor went out on general strike today in a mass drive to obtain 100 per cent unionization of the construction industry in St. Louis and St. Louis county.

An automobile caravan of about 6,000 union men went first to a large residential building project in the county, where their leaders were rebuffed by the builder, Charles Mellis, who told them, "I will not sign a union contract under any circumstances."

Two hundred pickets were left at the Mellis sub-division and the main party moved on to another non-union project.

The strike was voted late yesterday by business agents of 26 unions as an aftermath of a fight Wednesday between A. F. of L. pickets, one of whom was killed, and non-union workmen employed in the erection of bungalows at a county sub-division.

Union leaders planned "the biggest labor funeral in the history of St. Louis" tomorrow morning for Upton Hammond, 69, A. F. of L. plasterer, who was clubbed to death in the pitched battle.

Embassy in China Escapes Bombing

Chungking — (AP) — The United States embassy in this provisional Chinese capital narrowly escaped destruction today when three groups of Japanese planes dropped about ten bombs around the embassy compound on the south bank of the Yangtze river.

Another bomb dislodged a boulder which rolled down the embankment and struck the United States gunboat Tutuila. Damage was slight, however.

The British river steamer Wanhsien was punctured by pieces of bombs which fell during the raid at noon-time. The steamer was anchored at the south bank of the river.

The Canadian mission also was shaken badly.

About 75 casualties were caused when some junks were smashed, but casualties ashore were low.

Dr. Bevis Inducted as Head of Ohio State

Columbus, Ohio —(AP)— Dr. Howard Landis Bevis was formally inducted into the presidency of Ohio State university today in one of the most colorful ceremonies of the institution's 67-year history.

Representatives of 250 colleges and universities looked on as H. S. Atkinson, chairman of the board of trustees, turned the office over to the former Ohio Supreme court judge, financial expert and Harvard professor.

Dr. Bevis actually assumed his duties Feb. 1.

Draftees Get Five Days to Settle Affairs Before Reporting to Army

Washington — (AP) — President Roosevelt has prescribed regulations for inducting draftees into the army, allowing every man selected for military training at least five days in which to settle his affairs before being inducted.

The regulations, last of six volumes prescribed for the operation of the draft, require army corps commanders to give the governors of the several states at least 21 days' notice of the number of men who will be called from each state on various dates.

Generally, the regulations set forth this procedure for inducting trainees:

The national selective service director will notify each governor periodically of the draft quotas, credits and debits, of his state and the number of men to be furnished by the state. The governors will distribute those quotas among the local draft boards in those states.

After the governors have been notified of the number of men called at various times from each state, they will issue a call to local boards for their share of the men to be inducted.

The local boards will select men to fill the call in the order in which their draft numbers are drawn in the national lottery here next Tuesday. Men who have volunteered for immediate induction will be called first, without regard to the order numbers. No registrant will be called while an appeal from his draft classification is pending.

For each group of selectees, the local boards will appoint a leader and assistant leaders who will have authority to deliver the group to an army induction station and to handle all transportation, food and lodging tickets furnished to the group. Army men will meet the selectees upon their arrival at the induction station.

Each local board will post a list of men selected for induction and furnish a copy to local newspapers.

Any selected man who is so far from his local board that it would be a hardship for him to report for delivery to an induction station may go to the nearest board, not his own, and ask to be sent to the station.

Replacements will be furnished, within five days, for men who fail to report for delivery or are rejected at the induction station because they are not acceptable to the army. Men who are rejected will be given transportation back home. They will be re-classified by their local boards and be taken out of Class 1-A, which includes those fit and available for service.

Eau Claire —(AP)— John A. Brosnan and Chester A. Rose, 17-year-old Beloit youths, pleaded guilty to charges of assault with intent to rob and a second count of larceny by force and violence when arragned in county court here this morning. They were bound over to circuit court and returned to jail in default of $2,000 bail in each case.

The two youths, arrested in La Crosse, were charged with attacks on two women, Miss Nettie Neubert, 60, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Kate Day, Rock Falls, on the night of Oct. 21. When the latter's purse, containing three rings and a watch, was taken. Miss Neubert, who sustained a severe blow on the right temple, is still under observation at a hospital here.

Harrisburg, Pa. —(AP)— Roger W. Babson, the Prohibition party's candidate for president, and Edgar V. Moorman, vice presidential candidate, today were denied a place on the Pennsylvania ballot at the November election.

Dauphin County Court Judge E. Fox ruled the party failed to file nomination petitions with the election bureau in proper time.

Sneeze Powder Thrown as Man Who Egged Willkie Faces Court

Chicago—(AP)—A handful of sneeze powder completely upset the S. State street court decorum today when the case of Charles Mulrain, 53, who allegedly egged Mr. and Mrs. Wenwell L. Willkie Tuesday night, was called.

When the defendant, the complainant and his lawyer; Judge Harold P. O'Connell, the reporters, photographers and spectators stopped sneezing — whoever tossed the sneeze powder wasn't caught—Mulrain pleaded innocent to charges of disorderly conduct and assault with a deadly weapon, frozen eggs.

Mulrain, nervous and perspiring, obtained a continuance until Nov. 12, one week after the election.

He said he wanted time enough to obtain witnesses "to prove I was intoxicated," and that he wanted to obtain lawyers.

"I am terribly sorry about the incident," he said, "it was all done in the spirit of the moment."

Willkie, the Republican presidential candidate, was struck in the left temple by an egg just before his train departed from the LaSalle street station and one or more eggs struck Mrs. Willie on the back, soiling her clothing.

Seized by police, Mulrain was accused in complaints by Republican State Senator Arthur J. Bidwell, who was represented today by Edward Casey, a former municipal court judge.

"In behalf of the Republican party," Casey said, "we want to be magnanimous in this matter. Mr. Willkie also is magnanimous and we

Grams, believed to be a possible victim of amnesia, left his home here last Saturday night, saying he was going to the sewage plant. He failed to show up at the plant.

Both Parties in Bid for Labor's Support at Polls

Willkie Asserts He Wants to 'Put End To Bad Feeling' Era

By the Associated Press

Rival views on labor's stake in the outcome of the 1940 election came in for fresh campaign emphasis today.

Wendell L. Willkie returned to New York and Pennsylvania for further speeches after telling an Akron, Ohio audience last night that he wanted "to put an end to this era of bad feeling" between labor and industry.

At the same time, Henry A. Wallace contended in a Detroit address that because of the Roosevelt administration "there were millions more men employed and spending their wages" and appealed for workers to vote Democratic in the interest of business growth.

Sharing the spotlight with principals in the campaign was John L. Lewis, CIO president, who will speak over some 300 radio stations (NBC, CBS and MBS) from 8 o'clock to 8:30 (C. S. T.) tonight. Lewis, it is believed, may disclose his choice between President Roosevelt and Willkie.

Willkie said there could not be a growing national economy "except by understandings and cooperation between labor and management."

Would End "Bad Feeling"

"With the help of the leaders of both labor and of industry, I want to put an end to this era of bad feeling," Willkie said.

The Republican nominee later announced that he intended to reply to any "political speeches" by President Roosevelt within 48 and probably 24 hours of their delivery.

Wallace said Republicans had adopted a slogan "what helps business helps you," but, he asserted that, in effect, they were telling the country that whatever helps the "financial manipulators of Wall street" helps the worker and farmer.

Herbert Hoover made his first speech of the campaign at Columbus, Ohio, last night and asserted that the New Deal is creating an economic system which "drifts down the suicide road of national socialism."

Urging Willkie's election, the former president said that a third term would violate "an unwritten provision of our constitution."

Secretary Ickes said at a press conference in Washington that Mr. Roosevelt's speech Wednesday in Philadelphia had stopped any Willkie trend—"if there ever was a Willkie trend."

Drive in Midwest

Senator Charles L. McNary, the Republican vice presidential candidate, said in a speech at Kendallville, Ind., that the administration's reciprocal trade program had "sold part of the farmers' domestic market down the river."

Democrats indicated the closing days of the campaign would see an intensification of their drive for votes in the middle west. Senators Barkley of Kentucky, Byrnes of South Carolina and Connally of Texas, among others, will speak there.

Before microphones and on platforms in many sections, campaign speakers continued the oratory last night. Highlights included:

New York — Mayor LaGuardia declared that Willkie "seemingly believes that anything goes in a campaign, that no responsibility attaches to a pledge, statement or promise."

Rochester, N. Y. — Raymond Moley, erstwhile administration aid who is supporting Willkie, said, "give the executive the further power that this election involves and the congress will bow before him like wheat before a storm."

Philadelphia — Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, said the country was "just about to go under "when Mr. Roosevelt took office and that he led the nation to a "spiritual rebirth."

Cleveland — General Hugh S. Johnson declared that if President Roosevelt is reelected "war is certain and will come soon."

Badger Candidate Charges Wallace With 'Treachery'

Milwaukee—(AP)—Francis T. Murphy, Democratic nominee for congress from the Fourth district, called Henry A. Wallace's endorsement of Senator Robert M. LaFollette "treachery" in a statement issued yesterday.

"Whoever values self respect and party loyalty might well consider the action of Mr. Wallace in endorsing any one outside his own party not only 'a silly mistake' but treachery of the sort that brought about the downfall of every democracy in Europe," Murphy said.

State Democratic Chairman Thomas R. King termed the boycott of Wallace's address "a silly mistake."

Murphy, James E. Finnegan, Democratic nominee for United States senator, Francis E. McGovern, gubernatorial nominee, and Gustave J. Keller, nominee for attorney general, walked from the platform at Madison last Tuesday night when the vice presidential candidate told them he would compliment Senator LaFollette.

Petain Will Give Report On Confab

genous to the European living space), the same sources said significantly:

"For the present it is England."

The foreign office was silent on details of the Hitler-Petain conference or even the subjects discussed by the two chiefs of state.

Spokesman said it was unlikely that any light would be shed on the situation during the course of the day, but indicated that more concrete information might be forthcoming Monday.

Continuing their observations on general axis aims, present diplomacy and strategy, authorized sources said:

"Our fight is against whoever opposes European peace, harmony and cooperation. The nightmare of interference will be dispelled."

U. S. WATCHING

Washington—(AP)—France's fate—and hourly expected developments which might have a vital effect on American interests—were under close state department study today following the dramatic conference "somewhere in occupied France" between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Marshal Petain, chief of the French state.

Undersecretary of State Welles and Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador, conferred last night at the state department after swiftly moving diplomatic moves abroad left no doubt that a major decision concerning Europe's future hung in the balance.

Officials here were particularly intent on any factual developments resulting from the Hitler-Petain meeting which would have an effect on specific American interests. For example:

Possible Threat To U. S.

1. Any new disposition of the French fleet which, if turned over to Germany—a possibility mentioned in several reports from European capitals—might become an actual or potential menace to American security.

2. Any change in the status of France's colonies, especially the possessions in the western hemisphere.

A 14-nation committee was established yesterday which, under authority of the Havana Pan-American conference, has emergency powers to assume control of any European possessions in the western hemisphere.

The United States, acting in cooperation with the other American republics, was reported authoritatively to have plans ready to assume protection of such French territory if French collaboration with the axis made it advisable as a measure of hemisphere defense.

Clausen Says Trade Treaties Hurt Farms

Clintonville—(AP)—Fred H. Clausen, Republican nominee for United States senator, said in a political address yesterday that Wisconsin cheesemakers and milk producing farmers lost $100,000,000 "In the seven and one half years of the New Deal because of the reciprocal tariff treaties."

Clausen charged that Senator Robert M. LaFollette had attempted to "hedge" on his previous support of the reduced cheese duty "only because it is election year and he is seeking the vote of the cheese producing farmers."

Hitler Seeking Moral Support From France

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(AP)—Adolf Hitler will have made a great stride—at least on paper—toward consolidation of his conquests if the French government accedes to the new nazi terms for Franco - German cooperation which he is understood to have discussed with Premier Marshal Petain yesterday at their meeting "somewhere in France."

These demands are said to involve even a moderate French cooperation in the war against England, as well as participation in the reconstruction of Europe under the fuehrer's plans for a "new order."

Their acceptance would seem to wipe out the last vestige of chance that democracy may sprout again in unhappy France if the totalitarian dictators win the war.

As I said yesterday, I believe that Hitler's move cuts far deeper than any mere preparation for another offensive against Britain, although that undoubtedly figures in his plans. To my mind, the support which he seeks from France is chiefly moral rather than material, his idea being to safeguard himself in the event of a stalemate in the war with Britain.

Would Remove Obstacle

If he can secure French moral support or even open acquiescence, unwilling though it undoubtedly will be, he will have removed one of the chief obstacles to his grandiose scheme for remoulding the continent into a unit whose sole business will be to contribute to the might of Germany.

The all-important obstacle which he has to eliminate is, of course, the British empire—of which more anon. That is a continuing program.

If Marshal Petain and his government decide to play along with Hitler it surely will represent an act of expediency rather than of desire to be associated with nazidom. Whatever action the aged war-hero takes undoubtedly will be recorded, even by his opponents, as an act performed in pursuit of patriotic duty.

The choice of the French government is a bitter one. If it accepts the nazi terms it may get a modification of the fierce conditions under which it labors, and the release of some of its occupied territory. If it refuses, the country faces even greater torment and privations than it now endures.

Petain must feel that his business is to salvage as much of his country as he can from German hands. His government must, of course, be fascist for cooperation with his conqueror.

Territory Vital Factor

But after all, the question surely has arisen in his mind as to whether the precise form of government matters much under the present trying circumstances.

It is French territory that counts right now—the actual land. Governments may come and governments may go, but the soil of France will remain.

What would you yourself do under such conditions? Would you grasp at the soil of your fatherland and cling to it with all your strength, or would you feel that there was some stronger call to answer?

Then there's another problem which the aged marshal must face. He must get peace so that his people can get back to work. They need food, and they're going to need it a lot more desperately before this coming winter is over.

Believe me, who saw it in the World war, the pinched and hungry faces of little children provides a powerful motive for desperate action.

It would seem that Vice Premier Laval, who twice has been premier of France, is the active influence in the Petain government. He probably is the man behind the gun in arranging for a discussion of the nazi terms.

Adroit Politician

Laval is an adroit politician and a smooth worker. My impression of him from personal contact is that he would be a tough opponent in a poker game. He had a preliminary conference with the nazi authorities on the terms, and I should say that he would have driven as hard a bargain as anyone could with the fuehrer.

The former premier is credited with being ambitious, but many believe that if he is smart he will satisfy himself with being the power behind the throne and keep Marshal Petain at the head of government. The people of France adore the old soldier and they trust him. They will follow his advice where they wouldn't follow that of Laval.

Laval has a notable precedent before him in the procedure of Hitler himself. You will recall that when aged President Von Hindenburg, beloved of all Germany, raised him to the chancellorship, the future "fuehrer" bided his time for assumption of power until the marshal was dead.

Wallace Makes Bid For Labor's Support At Michigan's Polls

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, Democratic vice presidential nominee climaxed a one-day swing through Michigan yesterday with a bid for the state's huge labor vote, while Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg called for defeat of President Roosevelt.

The former secretary of agriculture, before a Detroit rally, urged labor to vote Democratic in the interests of business growth and declared the New Deal, despite opposition obstruction, had been working to build "national strength and prosperity from the ground up."

The Republicans, he added, "have the cart before the horse" in campaigning with a slogan that "whatever helps business helps you."

"The business men on the main street of every Michigan town, who are so often told that it is the New York investors who make prosperity know that in their own business the customers make whatever prosperity there is," he said.

Vandenberg asserted the election of President Roosevelt for a third term might be taken by the chief executive as a mandate that "he should subordinate the system of free American government to his own will."

Nazi Long-Range Guns Firing Across Channel

Dover, England—(AP)— Germany's long-range guns fired across the English channel in quick succession late today, shaking houses on shore and sending up great columns of water with their big shells.

A plane was seen cruising at low level between Calais and Boulogne, apparently aiding the gunners to spot their targets.

War Situation Today

Italian Planes Join Nazis In Attack on Great Britain

With Italian warplanes joining the assault on Britain for the first time, London underwent a series of violent, rapid-fire attacks today, suffering apparently heavy casualties.

More than a score were killed or wounded when a stick of bombs smashed two street cars on a crowded London thoroughfare, exploding between the two cars on parallel tracks.

Nazi quarters in Berlin said the raiders were dropping bombs of "heavier caliber" than usual.

The German capital also experienced the terror of bombs hurtling from night skies as British R. A. F. bombers, striking through low-hanging clouds, gave Berlin its second night raid in a row. The Germans acknowledged a number of casualties were inflicted and that "several fires" were set.

Germany's great northern port of Hamburg, where warships are under construction, also felt the lash of bombs marked "made in Britain," with a nazi communique commenting tersely that "fires were set and other property damage resulted in the harbor and some sections" of the city.

The London air ministry said R. A. F. warplanes stormed Berlin in a three-hour attack, flying low over the German capital and bombing the Pulitzstrasse and Lehrter railway stations.

On the diplomatic front, attention focussed on the status of France as Premier Marshal Philippe Petain, 84-year-old chief of the vanquished republic, was reported en route to Vichy to inform his ministers on the outcome of a dramatic meeting with Adolf Hitler.

In Berlin, authorized sources said the Hitler-Petain meeting in the German fuehrer's railway car "somewhere in France" yesterday provided "new evidence that we are trying to put Europe back on her legs under axis leadership — independent of exterior influences which have been trying to stick their noses into affairs which don't concern them."

Coincidentally, Russian, German and Italian delegates arrived at Bucharest, Rumania, for a conference on Danube river traffic. Moscow observers interpreted Soviet participation in the conference as axis recognition of Russia as a Danube power since her occupation of Bessarabia.

Originally, the Danube commission did not include Russia, but the Kremlin protested and insisted on representation.

Mystery still enveloped the meeting between Hitler and Marshal Petain.

United States officials expected early developments which might have a vital effect on American interests and authoritative sources in Washington said plans were ready for United States protection of French western hemisphere possessions if French collaboration with the axis made such action advisable as a measure of hemisphere defense.

Under the act of Havana, adopted by the 21 American republics last July, a 14-nation committee has been established with emergency powers to assume control of such possessions, and Washington sources said any occupation of these colonies would be handled by United States naval forces with the consent of the other republics represented on the committee.

The nazi air force resumed its daily attacks on London at dawn after a considerable slackening during the night, although the industrial midlands had felt the blows of German bombers.

A thundering chorus of anti-aircraft "archies," blasting at nazi raiders twisting through a cloud-specked sky, belied rumors that London's defense guns were wearing out and that ammunition was running low.

Air Marshal Sir Philip Joubert, taking official note of the rumors, broadcast a denial last night and explained that the system of barrage fire had been abandoned when the Germans started dodging tactics instead of straight-flying mass assaults.

Britain's aerial counter-offensive, displaying ever greater strength struck hard at Germany's war foundries during the night, the London air ministry reported.

Mussolini's high command reported quickening activity in the Near East, with Italian bombers attacking many objectives in the rich Egyptian valley of the Nile—including Port Said, guardian of the Mediterranean entrance to the Suez canal; an airfield at Catbhur, northwest of Cairo; and defense works at Aboukir, 14 miles east of Alexandria.

Techoncratic Unit Will Study Engines

Balk Control Of Lake Fishing

International Board Hears Objections to Proposed Regulation

Milwaukee—(AP)—The international board of inquiry for the Great Lakes fisheries heard strenuous objections yesterday to federal or international control of commercial fishing in the Great Lakes.

Some 100 fishermen, game wardens and fisheries association representatives attended the hearing.

"We believe the present system of state control should continue," John R. Schacht of Philadelphia, testified. Schacht is president of the Great Lakes Fisheries association.

B. O. Webster, superintendent of state fisheries, Madison, said the state could exercise proper control "without outside assistance."

"We would be giving up our God-given rights if we were to let the federal government or an international board control the fisheries," said Everett LaFond, of Two Rivers, secretary of the Wisconsin Commercial Fishermen's association.

LaFond expressed the opinion that the states, together with representatives of the fishermen, could find some solution to problems involved.

Uniform regulations for the Great Lakes fisheries were urged by Oliver Smith and Joseph Cayner of Port Washington.

Robert A. Gray of the state conservation department, suggested that the inquiry board also study pollution in the Fox and Wisconsin rivers.

George Lince, Suamico fisherman asserted that "refuse has killed all the fish in Green Bay, and the smell is obnoxious."

Facts Clear Up Carload Of Mattresses Mystery

The mystery of the carload of mattresses which rumor said were to be given to relief clients the night before election has been solved and the facts reveal a drab story which started last November.

Clubwomen "heard" about it and passed the story on; men called the relief department, the public welfare department and any other department that could possibly shed light on the situation.

And a number of people, who "heard about it" asked the Post-Crescent to investigate and expose the deal which they said wasn't exactly cricket.

The explanation of the mystery follows:

The Appleton relief department since last June has had mattresses which were distributed as they were needed by relief clients. Those that are left, 69 of them, are stored in the basement of the old post office building and will be distributed as they are needed in the future, according to F. A. W. Hammond, relief director.

Late last year, the federal public welfare department offered the state department materials for mattresses which the department accepted and sent to Waupun state prison where the materials were made into mattresses.

The state public welfare department sent letters to all the counties offering to sell the mattresses for the cost of processing. Appleton and Outagamie county accepted and together purchased 170 mattresses of which 100 went to Appleton, 10 to Kaukauna and the rest to the county relief department

Hammond said the mattresses cost the city 85 cents each for singles and doubles and 60 cents each for those used in cribs. They were delivered during June, July and August and have been stored here since.

Hammond further emphasized that the mattresses were and will be distributed to "relief clients only on the basis of need" and that he probably will make it a point not to distribute any of them on election night.

Neckties Snipped At Lion Meeting

Waupaca—Among the souvenirs of the Lions fifteenth anniversary celebration Wednesday evening at Delevan hotel were three neckties in six neat pieces. Roy Barber was tie inspector and brandished his huge tailor's shears beneath the chins of three victims—Roy Holly, Ben Dance, and George Hendrickson, superintendent of schools. Master of ceremonies was Roy Luther with his Norwegian jokes.

Loomis Would Wager Heil Didn't Effect Economies

Milwaukee —(AP)— Orland S. Loomis, Progressive gubernatorial candidate, waved three $100 checks at a political rally last night and offered to give the money to the Red Cross if Governor Heil or any other citizen can prove the present state administration has been "an economy business administration."

Loomis declared that more money was collected from state taxpayers from all sources during the first fiscal year of the Heil administration than in any fiscal year before.

He challenged the governor or others to match his $300 and name any three justices of the state supreme court as judges.

Bob LaFollette Attacks Heil's Budget, Tax Levy

Milwaukee —(AP)— Senator Robert M. La Follette (Prog-Wis) said in a political address last night that the Heil administration "has given Wisconsin the largest budget, the biggest tax levy, the biggest payroll and the biggest deficit in the history of the state."

"A few big business monopolists may still be grateful to the administration for favors handed out by the 1939 Republican legislature," La Follette said, "but most businessmen, shocked by the Heil 'maladministration' will join farmers, labor and other groups in repudiating it at the polls."

Wisconsin's experience with a 'business administration should warn us against inviting business to take over on a national scale," he said.

Johnson Wants Voters to Think Twice About Wallace

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Lansing, Mich.—This country isn't giving enough thought to the third term candidate's vice presidential candidate, Henry Wallace. Few recent presidents have long survived eight consecutive years in the White house. What would 12 years do? We have no way of knowing. We never tried it before. No American ever had the gall to ask for it. The electorate was never before so well subsided and brow-beaten as even to consider it. But we must consider it now.

Johnson

Our consideration has explored a trend towards a self-perpetuating dictatorial dynasty. The same contempt for American principle and tradition as has been shown by Mr. Roosevelt for Thanksgiving day, the congress, the courts, the constitution and the laws; also the imminent danger of foreign war, is all so clearly tied to my vote or yours for a third term for the indispensable man. But have we considered that we may be voting in Henry Wallace as president? If the fourth New Deal wins in this election, only the continuation of one wearied and terribly overburdened life could prevent his succession.

Mr. Roosevelt himself has said that he never wanted to be president again. Only the present "crisis" compelled him. In congratulating the Chicago convention on its rubber stamp "nomination" of Mr. Wallace, the president told them that they had "chosen" an excellent "president"—not "vice president." There is a considerable opinion in Washington that Mr. Roosevelt contemplates breaking another precedent, pulling another great surprise, and, at an appropriate time, stepping aside to let his mantle fall on the shoulders of his chosen creature.

Thus, in our war hysteria, we are overlooking the fact that we may be buying a pig in a poke for president of the United States. That prospect should be enough to cause even the most careless to stop, look and listen.

We are told that Mr. Roosevelt, who acts as his own secretary of state, war, navy and treasury, does so because he is indispensable for foreign relations, national defense and fiscal policy. How much this is like Mussolini who, at one time, also held all these cabinet portfolios in Italy, we never stop to consider—any more than we consider how absurd it is to suggest that even this charming amateur could be competent—much less indispensable in so many roles. Skip that, for the love of mike, give a thought to whether Mr. Wallace is also indispensable in all these key positions or in any position.

One may assume that he does not deny the soft impeachment. He, like Hitler, is a mystic, is idol and his inspiration for his "ever-normal-granary" nonsense is Joseph of the coat of many colors, the dreamer of dreams who interpreted Pharaoh's trance about the seven lean cows eating the seven fat cows, cornered the Egyptian grain market for 14 years and then capitalized on famine to destroy the institution of private property in Egypt. When Joseph got through, everything belonged to the state. Henry is for that too.

He has roved the realms of fancy in his A. A. A. and otherwise. He is a star-gazer of many cults. He throws boomerangs. He has already tried everything once, from killing little pigs and dairy herds to plowing under cotton. His only magic has been to spend billions. Every soaring plan of his to cure the underlying farm price disparity is in complete collapse. Except for federal handouts of cash the basic condition is worse than when he started.

It is worse because, by refusing to recognize the world price situation for export crops he has priced the farmer out of his export markets for cotton and, to a lesser degree, for wheat and animals fats. This has subsidized the farmer's competition and those markets are gone forever.

Thus, in his chosen field, Mr. Wallace is a complete flop. Beyond that field he has shown less competence and leadership and has less experience to be president than any other candidate on either side who ever received such momentary consideration. His election as vice president could prove a catastrophe. Let's give this angle a thought before election day.

Calls Jackson Speech Verbal Egg-Throwing

Lawrence Says Talk Tried to Impugn Record of Willkie

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—It probably would be expecting too much to find the New Dealers arguing the merits of public questions rather than engaging in their favorite tactics of trying to impugn the honesty and integrity of their opponents. And to date that's the record.

Lawrence

The latest bit of verbal egg-throwing has come from Attorney General Jackson, who, in the 15 minutes preceding President Roosevelt's speech on Wednesday night about "falsifying the record," indulged in quite a bit of falsifying on his own hook.

The whole Jackson speech was devoted to a thesis which isn't true—namely, that Wendell Willkie was more interested in the "profits of his friends" when he opposed the Russell-Overton amendment than he was in anything else. The attorney general rehashed the cry that the Republican nominee was willing to conscript youth, but not private property.

But what does the record show? It reveals that the Russell-Overton amendment was rejected by the congress because it was unfair and would have sabotaged defense. Had it not been for Wendell Willkie's courageous fight, his willingness to run the risk of being misrepresented by the political smear captains of the campaign, it might have been in the law today.

It is interested to note also that the precise plan which Mr. Willkie proposed to take care of recalcitrant firms making war weapons now has been adopted by the president in the form of a regulation.

Fought In France

The attorney general ought to know that Mr. Willkie, who fought in France and entered the last war not as a captain, but as a "buck private," knows as much about what it means to risk one's life in battle as anybody in the present administration. To impugn his patriotism on the ground that he puts profits above all else is to do some falsifying worthy only of those who prefer to attack a man's integrity and not to debate the issues.

If anybody is guilty of taking a step which would have meant sabotaging the defense program, it is the attorney general himself. The other day, for a purely political purpose, he wrote a letter, stating that firms merely accused, but not convicted in a court of violating the labor relations law could be construed as violators of the policy of the defense commission which, in a generally expressed statement, declared that defense contractors should comply with the labor laws.

Mr. Jackson's ruling had to be repudiated by the war and navy departments. Even close-mouthed William Knudsen, who keeps out of politics and tries to do a production job for the defense advisory commission, was compelled to say publicly that what the attorney general had ruled was "going too far." Then industry was reassured.

Not Artificial

The tactics of the attorney general are not surprising. The entire New Deal has been trying ever since last summer to insult the intelligence of the American people by trying to tell them that what happened at the Philadelphia convention which nominated Willkie was all artificial, and that the telegrams came from financial interests.

It so happens that a national convention is observed by at least 500 reporters and radio commentators. Their almost unanimous report was that Mr. Willkie's nomination was a spontaneous development. Yet it suits the New Deal to insist on falsifying the record and to imply that Mr. Willkie bought his nomination.

This is a fatal error in tactics. Throughout the length and breadth of America where Wendell Willkie has travelled, he has succeeded in persuading his hearers that he is earnest, sincere and, conscientious and, above all, that he is intellectually honest. There may be grounds on which to attack the economic reasoning of the Republican nominee. He is certainly no radical and has no sympathy with the communistic ideas of so many of the New Dealers, but an attack on that basis is understandable. What is incomprehensible is that the New Deal, after eight years, figure that all it needs to do to win a fight is to stir up class hatred, impute dishonesty and lack of integrity to everybody else and the masses of voters will go along with such versions of what is happening in public affairs.

Back To 1932

The president's speech of Wednesday did not go deeply into the issues of the campaign at all, but insisted on going back to 1932 and the bank holiday. Mr. Roosevelt completely missed the peace issue. What the public today doesn't want is mere denials of an intention to lead America into war, but an acknowledgement that the people will be consulted through their elected representatives and not made the victims of an accomplished fact when it is too late for the peoples voice to be heard.

Notwithstanding the fact that the sending of the 50 destroyers to England was approved by public opinion, the incident was viewed more from its emotional aspects of the moment than its long-range effects. Neither branch of congress was consulted on what amounted to an actof war. The president guessed right that time, but do the American people want one man to guess the answer to such questions all the time or do they wish at least the committees of both houses, comprising members of both political parties, to be consulted? That's the real issue—1-man government.

Once Mr. Roosevelt is given a third term, he will feel justified in construing it as a do-as-you-please mandate. A vote for a third term is a vote to let one man decide the issues of peace or war, and a vote against a third term is a vote for constitutional government as it has been known for more than 150 years. That's the underlying principle at stake in this campaign and it is bigger than any man or group of men. A debate on it would be informative and might be inspiring.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

The Whale, the Elephant and the Eagles

Many who heard what the associate editor of "Aero Digest," Mr. Cy Caldwell, had to say about organizing an independent air force will feel that in this old dispute, which goes back to the days of General Mitchell, the argument of the airmen has not yet been squarely met or conclusively answered. Obviously it is not a question on which an ordinary newspaper writer could or should presume to reach a definite conclusion. Nevertheless, it is not a dispute which "the experts" can settle. For it is the experts themselves who disagree, the sailors and the soldiers being on the whole opposed to an independent force, the airmen on the whole in favor.

In the end a dispute of this sort has to be settled by the responsible civilian authorities and by the President as Commander-in-Chief of all the armed forces. The lay public cannot settle a question of this sort. But the public can insist that the case of the airmen be examined thoroughly and with an open mind.

The ordinary objections to the establishment of an independent air force are, it seems to me, beside the point. It is argued that airplanes are as indispensable a part of the equipment of the Navy as are the submarines, as indispensable a part of the Army as the artillery, and that, therefore, the Navy must command the naval aviation and the Army must command the Army aviation. Mr. Caldwell made it very clear that the airmen for whom he speaks recognize this and have no idea of wishing to deprive the Navy or the Army of the planes they need, or to interfere with their command over their own aviation. The airmen are arguing that in addition to the planes which are auxiliaries of the Navy and the Army, there should be an independent air force organized under its own command and responsible to a Secretary of Air.

Their argument rests on the conviction, which they hold deeply, that just as sailors alone can develop the full potentialities of a Navy, just as soldiers alone can develop the full potentialities of an Army, so airmen alone, men who are air-minded, can develop the full potentialities of the still undeveloped art of aerial warfare. For my own part, I have yet to hear a satisfactory answer to this argument.

Attitude of Both Navy and Army Significant

It is not a satisfactory answer to say that the admiral must command his planes as he commands his submarines and the general his planes as he commands his artillery. No one denies this. No one, likewise, denies that the Navy needs a little army of his own, the Marines, for missions which are primarily naval operations though they require soldiers. But no one would argue that because the Navy has a little army, there should not also be an independent Army commanded by soldiers. There are ships in the Army and there are soldiers in the Navy, and they are indeed auxiliaries. But if soldiers were regarded only as auxiliaries of the Navy, would there ever be much of an Army?

The very fact that the Navy and Army regard aviation as an auxiliary is strong evidence amounting almost to proof, that they are not likely to think of aviation as a major arm in war. The Navy, quite rightly, regards aviation as auxiliary to the Navy's mission to command the seas. The Army, quite rightly, regards aviation as auxiliary to its mission which is to command the land. Is there not then a very strong presumption that there should be independent and co-ordinate service which has the mission to command the air?

Situation Changes as Methods Develop

The presumption is so strong that it cannot safely be dismissed without sober consideration. We must not be put off by the exaggerations of the debate or the rather unrestricted language which makes aviation enthusiasts often sound fanatical. The merits of the argument and not the merits of the debaters is what matters.

So we may agree, I think, that the airmen overstate their case, and injure it, when they contend that the air force is always the predominant arm in modern war. The Polish and the French campaigns, which they often cite, support the contention of the generals that in land warfare aviation must be as much a part of the unified force of the army as the artillery and the tanks. These campaigns prove the critical importance of aviation but they do not prove, quite the contrary in fact, the case for an independent air force.

But all campaigners are not alike. Is it not being demonstrated in the present phase of the war between Germany and Britain that a situation can arise where the air force is the principal arm of offense and defense, with the navy and army playing auxiliary roles? And is it not significant for us that this should be the case now that the war has entered a phase where the struggle is between Germany, a land power, and Britain, a sea power? But for aviation the war today would be like the legendary battle between the whale and the elephant neither could strike at the other until the eagles were called into the battle. The air became the battlefield when Germany could not use her army against Britain and Britain could not strike with her navy at Germany.

Range of U. S. Defense Complicates Air Problem

When war takes this form, it is not self-evident that the commanders of the campaign should be men who have spent their whole lives thinking about the strategy and the tactics of aerial warfare rather than men who are accustomed to think of airplanes as flying scouts and flying artillery." Surely our experience of human nature tells us that the utmost potentiality of a new weapon is not likely to be developed by men who think of it as an auxiliary to the older weapons. Surely it is better to encourage the airmen, even if they claim too much, than to throttle them down under men who are pre-occupied elsewhere, are specialized in a different direction, and are, therefore, disposed to believe too little.

For the United States in its present position there are compelling reasons why nothing should be neglected which might develop quickly, not merely the quantity of planes, but a formidable air power. The area which we have to defend is enormous. If we stood alone in the world, we would not have for many years a navy great enough to defend what we must defend. Much of the region we must defend cannot be reached by an army quickly enough to be decisive.

Only an air force has the range, the mobility, and the offensive power to compensate for the insufficiency of the one-ocean navy and the extreme slowness with which an army can be brought into action. Must we not ask ourselves, then, whether we can afford not to listen to the airmen who say that for an air force to be all that it might be, it must be planned and commanded by airmen?

High Life Team Sets Loop Mark

955 Game Record in Refreshment League; Frappy Has 222, 549

New London — Miller High Life keglers set up a new team game for the Refreshment league when they piled up a 955 tally at Prahl's alleys last night. Their 2,530 pin total was 15 pins short of a new mark. Earl Frappy led the way with a 222 line and 549 total, Bill Schmidt donating a 210 game. The squad took two games from the Orange Kists to tie them for second as the Verifines gathered two from Egger's Tap Room and gained a first place tie. The top pair is only one game ahead, 11 to 10. Counts of 513 and 701 by Clyde Roepke paced the Verifines.

Borden Farmer League

Lebanon took a lone lead in the Borden-Farmer loop as they cleaned the Skunk Hollowers three games. Ostrander came out of a slump with three straight victories over Black Creek.

Ely Paul of Beat Creek paced the loop with a 510 series and his squad clung to second place despite the two losses to Royalton. Ed Lathrop topped the losers with a 569 count. Harold Hutchison grooved a 502 total and 195 line for Maple Creek as they won two from Bordens. Elwood Hutchison of Lebanon had best game of the evening with 206.

Ladies' Club League

Meshke's Grocery broke the tie for the loop lead when they trimmed Leopold and Quesman Grocery two games while Meartz Insurance was beaten two by Reetz's Garage. Mrs. Ralph Reetze led the loop with counts of 177 and 458.

New London—Plans to be host to the annual Wisconsin Valley convocation of Episcopal churches here next Thursday, Oct. 31, were made by St. Paul's Guild of St. John's Episcopal church at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Ivan Beckert Wednesday evening.

From 50 to 100 delegates are expected to meet here in the morning. Mrs. H. Roddis, Wausau, convocation vice president, will preside over the meeting. Speakers will include the Right Rev. H. Sturtevant, Fond du Lac, bishop of the Fond du Lac diocese, and the Rev. William C. Way, Wausau, dean of the convocation.

Visiting delegates will have dinner at the Elwood hotel at noon and sessions will continue in the afternoon.

The Temple That Smells Like a Stockyard

When George Commoner left the Temple's private dining rooms after viewing the purple bosses drinking champagne and counting up their millions he swore softly under his breath that the Temple of his fathers would never see him again. But, as if divining his thoughts, the Spirit spoke, "You haven't seen the royal suite yet, better come back some time and inspect it." That advice was milled over in George's mind until last night he again sought out the secluded glen and approached a place that was once thought to be sacred. Over a hundred yards from the Temple he could hear the din and uproar that seemed to become more shrill on every visit. He waited at the big oak, and the moonlight casting its mellow rays upon the Temple steps revealed a most unusual sight.

Men and women were scrambling, frantically, over each other to get in or out. There was pushing, mauling, struggling, screaming. There were no smiles. All were tense like sprinters in a race. Their eyes were hard and flint-like and their faces contorted like those of the Furies.

Suddenly three men broke loose from the crowd. One was dressed in a loud checkered suit with big diamonds on pudgy fingers, the others were rat-like men who carried short blunt-nosed automatics. The leader grated harshly, "To hell with them all, I got mine anyway," as he fingered rolls of thousand dollar bills.

But the Spirit touched George on the shoulder and beckoned him away. "If this keeps up," he said, "we'll have to build a bigger Temple." "You mean a bigger stable, don't you?" responded George.

Quickly switched into the richly carpeted royal suite George found himself looking upon a domestic scene. There was a young woman and a young man, both of whose faces he had often seen in the papers. The young woman was straightening out a needle point design on the wall. George read it. It said, "I shall drive the money changers from the temple." He heard the young woman say to her companion, "You've got to concede, Jimmy, that I got there first for the bank account." And to her companion's questioning eyes she produced her proof that even before her father was in office she was out after the big money. It consisted of the following printed notice which she had distributed:

"Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dahl, daughter of the President-elect, has a charming voice and most engaging personality. She is willing to appear on any commercial program sponsoring a program consistent with her public position."

"Consistent with her public position," —what did that mean? What was her public position" She had none, thought George But the Spirit rolled its eyes in a knowing way and then the light broke upon George. "Consistent with her public position" meant at least $1,000 an appearance

"Well," spoke up her companion forcefully, Elliott didn't do very bad for a kid of 25 When a boy at that age can draw down 76,000 simoleons a year he is going some." His sister smiled appreciatingly. "Elliott is quite all right To get that sum when business is poor shows resourcefulness."

But then her companion started to boast. "I have really made the most," he said. And he went into detail. There was $44,000 to $50,000 a year out of the insurance racket. Everyone has to have insurance. You just go up to a great distillery, a big contractor, an extensive tobacco house and you ask for a cut on the business. Practically all rates are the same anyway. Sometimes the total insurance may be increased for one's benefit. But concerns that carry tens of millions of insurance pay hundreds of thousands in premiums and the agents' commissions, usually around 20 per cent of the premium, count up fast. Of course, the fellows who provided the big policies to Jimmy multiplied their favors 10 times on the public funds and business.

But Jimmy wasn't limited to insurance. The insurance business, once started, could be depended upon to support itself as long as the White House was held by the father. Why not start some new ventures, too? The motion picture industry was in the doghouse. An attorney general by the name of Murphy had denounced its destructive tactics upon the independent theater owners. Indictments were voted. Great lawsuits were started to make it conform to standards considered honorable and upright.

What a chance for a president's son! Jimmy became a vice-president of Goldwyn at $50,000 a year. And about a year later all the movie industry's troubles were amicably adjusted with a new attorney general who wasn't as strict as his predecessor, Murphy.

But a restless mind seeks new worlds to conquer. There were advantages to be had in the insurance racket never dreamt of by anyone before. Why not get the business directly on the ships owned by the President Lines Steamship Company of which the United States government owned 90 per cent of the stock? It was a soft touch. Ex-Senator McAdoo, retired by the people of California, had been made chairman of the company by President Roosevelt at $25,000 a year. Certainly his gratitude for the position would not make him look with cold eyes upon a little business for the President's son. From that one touch Jimmy's profit was a little better than $25,000. And it will continue annually as long as they can hold the White House. Thus Jimmy has his income up to about $125,000 a year and one must own nearly five million dollars of government bonds at the prevailing rate of interest to get that income.

But the sister was restless under Jimmy's boasting and his adding figures. "Mother has us all cleaned out," she said with finality and then she began to add the items: Magazine articles at $1.00 a word, $75,000 per annum: newspaper column $22,000 per annum, lectures at $1500 each, about $75,000 per annum: radio broadcasts at from $3,000 to $4,000 each and totaling about 150 broadcasts for Beauty Rest Mattresses, a certain shoe manufacturer, a toilet preparation and Sweetheart Soap.

"And mother was right smart," said the daughter, "she gave the radio earnings to charity which puts a little halo upon the hundreds of thousands she has left for herself."

The brother became a bit cynical. "Along with that motto on the wall," said he, "you should place that other wonderful statement of Dad's condemning officeholders who permit the members of their family jobs on the public payroll or an opportunity to cash in upon the executive influence."

Suddenly the building seemed to shake. The young woman went over to the wall and opened a slide from whence the entire temple could be viewed. George could see great clouds of dust going upwards. When the dust subsided it was seen that the organ loft had collapsed. The Temple had become so packed with money changers that they had even crowded into the organ loft beyond its capacity to sustain them.

George shook his head sadly, "It is a beastly sight," he said. "What?" spoke the Spirit, "The temple proper or the royal suite?" George continued to shake his head. He had no stomach even for an argument. He beckoned the Spirit to show him the way to cleaner air.

When he got outside he ran as tight as he could. At home he tried to forget by turning on the radio. There boomed into his ears this:

"Mr. Roosevelt should be reelected because he is the friend of the poor man. He stands for equality of opportunity. He is indispensable to the country—"

George turned the radio off with a jerk. So far as he was concerned he had seen enough of the difference between preaching and practice.

Wisconsin in October

Ancient chests in Holland, France and Britain have disgorged many letters written from the early American settlers to their relatives at home describing the glory of the autumns in America. The coloring, and the long drawn out Indian summers, were unknown to Europeans. Those who received the letters accounted for the descriptions as the usual exaggerations by men who wandered far.

But we who are privileged to live in a place like Wisconsin in the autumn know that those writers of the long ago couldn't have over-drawn the pictures they painted. Our countryside is flooded with vivid colors. A deep bronze is shadowed by a brilliant scarlet. Yellow, gold, carmine and purple with outcroppings of fiery red join in the Halloween masquerade.

Science has a cold and dignified explanation for this riot of color. It mumbles something about the plastids in the plant cell and the effect of light upon the sugary foods which sustain plant life. It tells why colors are green and explains in detail how they are altered into every hue of the rainbow.

But science is tiresome. Out with it. Poets and story tellers can furnish much happier solutions.

One says that nature at this time of the year is becoming a bit weary and dolls herself up with every tint to be found in the rouge box in order to delay the encroachments of age. Subtler pens have pictured the trees full of dainty fairies with wonderful paint boxes and delicate brushes that are wielded with sprightly dexterity. In the face of these better and sweeter explanations it would be courteous of science to walk apart and hush its murmurings. For the poets and the fairies were here before science ever made itself known, and have earned our friendly consideration.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—With General Franco of Spain definitely lined up with Hitler and Mussolini, the state department is on the verge of giving a juicy Export-Import bank credit to the Spanish dictator.

The decision to bolster Hitler's ally with U. S. dollars came simultaneously with Franco's ousting of a pro-British foreign minister and the appointment of Serrano Suner to this key post. Suner is Franco's brother-in-law, and the envoy who has just come back from Rome and Berlin where he conferred with Hitler and Mussolini and brought Spain formally under the Axis. Suner is considered the foremost Axis advocate in Spain.

Shortly after state department officials had decided privately to give the credit to Spain, Jay Allen, forthright ex-correspondent of The Chicago Tribune, encountered Assistant Secretary of State Breckinridge Long.

"Have we reached the point of getting down on our knees to beg people to take our money?" asked Allen, referring to the Franco credit.

"We're hoping to keep Franco neutral," replied Long.

"Yes," countered Jay Allen, "he'll stay neutral just as long as it pays the Axis to keep him neutral—which is until he can get sufficient supplies and credits from us. You'll keep Franco neutral the same way Italy was—until she had ample U. S. steel, U. S. wheat, and U. S. gasoline, all on credit. After Spain has all those supplies, Franco will come in."

NO WHEAT FOR LOYALISTS

The Export-Import bank credit is for the shipment of wheat to Spain. In this connection it is important to note that shortly before the end of the Spanish Civil war, Merwin K. Hart and other ardent Francoites opposed the shipment of wheat to Spain even though the American Friends Service committee proposed to distribute it equally to both Loyalists and Fascists.

After the final fall of the Spanish government, however, it was different. At that time Merwin K. Hart took John Rich of the Friends Service committee to Torkild Rieber, then chairman of the Texas company. And through Rieber, $40,000 was put up to buy wheat from the Surplus Commodities Corporation of the agriculture department. This wheat was then sent to Fascist Spain.

Note—Rieber resigned from the board of the Texas company when it was discovered that he had been friendly with Dr. Gerhard Westrick, Hitler's economic agent in the United States. Also he had been close to the Spanish fascists, having loaned an automobile to Franco's agent in the United States (just as he did Westrick); also having got his son a job with Texaco in the Venezuelan oil fields.

JUDGE ASHURST?

Finest recent tribute to a United States senator was circulated behind his back, when 84 colleagues signed a petition asking Roosevelt to appoint Senator Henry Fountain Ashurst to the U. S. Court of Claims.

There are only 96 members of the senate, and 12 were absent or ill when the petition was circulated proposing this reward for the senator from Arizona. Ashurst has served that state for 20 years since the first day it was elevated from a territory to statehood. He was defeated this year in the Democratic primary, largely because a weak heart prevented him from going home to campaign.

In addition to his old friend, Senator Tom Connally of Texas, the person who helped get the record-breaking total of 84 senatorial signatures for Ashurst was Mrs. Lionel Atwill, daughter of the late Edward T. Stotesbury and sister of Jimmy Cromwell, now running for senator from New Jersey.

When the list was handed to Roosevelt, he remarked: "I wish I could get 84 senators behind me."

ANSWERING LINDBERGH

The New Deal has only itself to blame that Colonel Charles Lindbergh's last sharpshooting speech went unanswered.

Mutual Broadcasting company, which gave the Nazi-decorated appeasement advocate free time, made a similar offer to the Democrats. That it wasn't accepted was not Mutual's fault.

Several hours before Lindbergh went on the air, MBC telephoned the White House and said that since his speech was of a partisan character, equal time would be granted the following day for a reply. The White House answer was, "See Senator Barkley."

MBC thereupon relayed the message to the Democratic floor leader, and Barkley said he would answer Lindbergh. Three hours later, Lowell Mellett, one of the six "passion for anonymity" White House secretaries, called MBC and advised that Colonel William ("Wild Bill") Donovan, A.E.F. hero and strong advocate of maximum aid to Britain, would replace Barkley.

This was satisfactory to MBC and it allocated time for Donovan. But next day came word that Colonel Donovan had turned thumbs down on the plan. He had served as assistant attorney general under Coolidge and had been GOP candidate for governor of New York in 1936; so he balked at making a speech for the Democrats, although a vigorous opponent of Lindbergh's.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Pierce Butler, son of the late anti-New Deal Supreme Court Justice, is one of the braintrusters on the Willkie train. Young Butler is aiding in the preparation of speeches. . . . To block Nazi seizure of Dutch investments in the United States through terrorization of their families and associates, Dutch businessmen in this country have quietly formed new companies that have taken over the assets of the old ones under long-term notes, payable only when Holland regains its freedom. This reorganization has been done with treasury and SEC aid, thus saving about $50,000,000 from Nazi coffers. . . . To keep step with the new civilian army, the war department has added a civilian adviser to its press section. He is Harold Jacobs, veteran newsman, borrowed from the Wage-Hour division.

DRAFT FORMULA

Following is the mathematical formula likely to be used in determining the first-call draft quota of each state:

Class 1A Registrants in State / Total Class 1A Registrants in U. S. x 400,000 = State quota

What this means is that 400,000 men will be called all told, and they all will be Class 1A registrants (men without any allowed deferments). Of this 400,000, each state will supply a number proportional to the number of Class 1A men registered in that state.

Example: If there are 4,000,000 Class 1A registrants in the nation, and a given state has 2,000 of these, the formula would work out like this:

2,000 / 4,000,000 x 400,000 = 200 = State quota.

Not all the 200, however, would be called in the first draft, since from the figure would be deducted the number of state residents serving in the national guard, regular army, navy, marine corps and coast guard.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—Shed a tear for the pigeon bill. It's dead. There were some who called it emergency defense legislation. There were some who merely poohpoohed it as another clutter on the statute books. Among the latter was President Roosevelt, who sent it back to the house of representatives with his veto.

Stinnett

The pigeon bill was a measure which would have made it an offense punishable by $500 fine to shoot, capture, pursue or otherwise hamper a homing pigeon in flight.

It was introduced in the house by the representative from Brooklyn, Dr. Joseph L. Pfeifer, prominent surgeon and himself a fancier of the winged messengers. He pointed out at the bill's inception that it was an emergency measure, that the war department was "interested in the measure, which it says is needed for national defense" because "when all other means of communication fail, the homing pigeon always gets through."

Passed by Senate

Senator Wagner, also of New York, had the bill given right of way in the senate as defense legislation. It passed both houses.

The president said in his veto message that it seemed like an unnecessary new law and that if any real need should arise for the measure, there would be plenty of time to enact it later.

"I am inclined to think there are no Americans, or at least very few of them who would deliberately shoot or capture a homing pigeon. I think there are practically no people who would deliberately remove or alter a message in the leg band of a homing pigeon. After all, homing pigeons do not closely resemble any game birds."

Story Behind It

On the face of it, I'll string along with the president. Name an enemy spy out to bag a homing pigeon and its message who would tremble with fear at the prospect of a $500 fine.

But if I have my pigeons in a straight line, there's a story behind this story . . . and here it is:

In Brooklyn and other communities there's a widespread pigeon racket, perpetrated by a sort of Black Hand of Pigeondom. These fiends who pray on the pigeon fanciers have devised intricate ways of capturing the homing birds.

Sometimes they send up their own flocks nearby during exercise periods and thus snare a few strays from the purebred Antwerps or homers.

Sometimes they net them or stun them with minute shot and light charges from rifles or shot guns.

They examine the bands, find the owner, call him up and give him the 'Say, Mister, I just found your pigeon. I'll bring him back but I'm way across town and it'll cost a dollar to get there. Will you pay it?"

Fanciers Furious

This pigeon snatching for ransom has the fanciers furious. Since their feathered pets ARE important to armies in wartime, they didn't see why the government shouldn't take a hand. Hence the bill.

Where the pigeon fanciers made their mistake was in failure to provide a sentence that would have made pigeon grabbers tremble in their boots. Death before a firing squad for squabnaping—there would have been a sentence severe enough to make enemy spies, and even Brooklyn Blackhanders think once or twice.

I agree with the president, but I sympathize with Dr. Pfeifer and his friends. They do have a cause. I particularly sympathize with Dr. Pfeifer for this is the second time he has championed a lost cause. Last year he introduced and saw defeated a bill to provide that all gravestones in national cemeteries should be of the same height.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, Oct. 29, 1915

German submarines attacked the Russian Black sea fleet while it was bombarding the Bulgarian port of Varna but the czar's vessels escaped, according to a report at Petrograd. Serbia seemed to be doomed as the Austro-German-Bulgarian invasion progressed.

Oscar Kunitz arrived the previous night from Milwaukee with another new taxicab. He then had two taxicabs and a touring car for hire.

A new semaphore had been purchased by the city for use of the traffic officer at the corner of College avenue and Oneida street. On the wings of the signal were the words "go" and "stop." Traffic was to be regulated by that system thereafter.

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, Oct. 24, 1930

A warning to the United States that it would be caught unprepared in the event of another war was sounded by General John J. Pershing in an interview published that day. "People say we should disarm," the leader of the American armies in the World war was quoted as saying. "America already is disarmed. . . . I pray fervently that there will be no more war. With all my soul I hate it. . . . We know that we will not provoke war. But what is there in history which authorizes us to conclude that someone else will not provoke one some of these days?"

Sylvester Kilishek, inventor of the "isolation hospital baby crib," had returned to Neenah from Minneapolis where he exhibited his bed at a meeting of the Inter-State society. The bed already was in use in many hospitals throughout the country. Mr. Kilishek was engineer at Theda Clark hospital.

Oh! So He's Decided to Run After All!

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison— Governor Heil will make two important decisions after November 5—if he is reelected.

Wyngaard

The first will involve action on the resignation of August Frey as director of the state research bureau, a man and an agency which have caused the governor's office more headaches than any other single problem during the two years of his term, with the possible exception of the revenue bill jockeying in the 1939 legislature.

The second involves consultation with the public service commission, now firmly in the hands of Republican appointees of Heil, on the selection of a secretary of the state utilities body. John Kaiser of Ripon, who succeeded Calmer Browy after the Republican inauguration, quit several weeks ago after making public a letter which said only that he didn't like the job. Since that time the commission has made no move to replace him, although there have been plenty of hints that action will be taken as soon as the voters decide the fate of the Heil administration at the ballot box next month.

RECORD

One factor which makes Wisconsin politics so baffling to outsiders and frequently incomprehensible even to natives, is the blithe inconsistency of some of the leading politicians.

A case in point is the present relationship between James E. Finnegan, the somewhat lonesome Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, and the Democrats of the Keller-McGovern New Deal stripe.

Six months ago Finnegan was making campaign speeches in which he contemptuously referred to supporters of the Roosevelt third term as "third termites".

He was then ardently supporting Vice President Garner's aspirations for the presidency, in line with his conservative record. At the same time the Keller-McGovern people were boasting that they were the first Democrats in the country to call for a third term. They made no secret of their feelings toward Finnegan either.

But the other day Finnegan recanted, publicly espoused the third-term bandwagon, and he joined the Keller-McGovern New Dealers without further ado. Now they are sulking together in their blazing resentment against the regular Democrats and Vice President Wallace for their favoritism toward the Progressives.

Note: A Washington newspaperman covering the Wallace campaign was trying to get a lesson in Wisconsin politics from Madison newspapermen here the other evening, but after some strenuous and devious explanations, he threw up his hands in dismay and decided against writing a story on the Wisconsin political situation. A journalistic wag commented that the latest Democratic faction consisted of the "anti-first paragraph in Candidate Wallace's speech faction."

POT-POURRI

Governor Heil finds his political position exactly reversed in the 1940 campaign. Two years ago Phil LaFollette was on the defensive, citing his and the Progressives' record. Today Heil is doing precisely the same thing, while the opposition hammers away at him without interference with as much vigor as was Heil's in 1938. . . George Rowe, former secretary to Senator LaFollette, is the author of a volume on national defense which echoes much of the LaFollette point of view. Rowe is now a federal government employe. . . A commentary on the grasp of the issues by Wisconsin politicians is the recurring discussion of LaFollette's ownership of a parcel of real estate in Virginia and Heil's industrial enterprises in New Jersey. . . .

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

DRESSING DOWN

When a reader thinks I deserve censure and undertakes to explain why, and has the courage and courtesy to sign his name and address, I read with care and weigh what he says, and so the reader's protest may do some good.

Such a reader administers this dressing down:

Dear Mr. Brady:

Some weeks ago in the very newspaper in which you were dishing out the whoopedo about hardening of the arteries there appeared a report of a meeting of the medical association which holds forth in these parts, and in it two doctors—regular ones—announced that arteriosclerosis was caused by a deficiency in one of the pancreatic hormones and not by other factors.

The leader here refers to a group of men who grew up with him, and declares that the men who gave the most thought and consideration to preserving their health, by good habits and right living, are now the most decrepit and miserable of the lot; while the men who ignored rules of hygiene, ate and drank, never took exercise when they could avoid it are still young looking and in apparent enjoyment of health and living. To the reader this seems convincing. To me it is meaningless!

So maybe you are scaring a lot of good people unnecessarily. The inoculation of fear of disease, or anything else, does more harm than all the germs, glandular deficiencies and what have you in the way of health handicaps taken by and large. But Medicines does nothing to allay it Carrell says thought can produce lesions If thought can produce them it can cure them. Think it over. W.R.

Although I cannot follow Carrel's hypothesis—if W R quotes him correctly—I do agree with the general concept that fear of disease is harmful to health One can understand that without going to the extreme of assuming that fear causes more harm than germs and other causes of disease

In this column and in every letter or pamphlet I send by mail it is always my earnest wish and object to avoid saying anything which may give rise to fear or worry about health or disease

W.R. did not waste time writing to me. The dressing down will at least make me more cautious concerning the propagation of fear.

Hot Milk at Bedtime

Is it a good habit to drink hot milk before retiring at night? I have often taken milk at the same meal with grapefruit, and never have experienced any ill effect, but M Told it is dangerous. (T.R.A.)

Answer—It is all right to drink hot milk at bedtime if you like—many find it aids sleep If I liked milk with grapefruit I'd have it that way and tell our old friend M. Told to push his helping over to me if he didn't want it.

Trachoma

What causes trachoma? Is it curable? Does it endanger the eyesight? (Mrs. N.M.)

Answer—Chronic red sore eyes, highly contagious, tending to impair sursight if not persistently treated by the physician It is curable only when treatment is begun before the eye is too greatly damaged and continued over a prolonged period. It is probably caused by a virus that spreads in the secretions, directly from person to person, by common use of towels, etc., or through the agency of flies.

We're at your mercy!

EVERY year during National Arrow Week—which is this week—men swarm down on us from all parts of town. They swoop over our counters and take away the season's handsomest shirts, ties, handkerchiefs, and shorts. We invite you to swarm, swoop, and take away too. For really, you won't find handsomer haberdashery anywhere.

Waves of Nazi Planes Again Attack London

crushed like a concertina and the others had windows and wood work blown out. Broken seats were flung into the roadway.

The driver of one car was killed. Casualties included some women.

The sunlit morning sky was blotched with anti-aircraft bursts as formations of the luftwaffe sent the capital's defenses into action.

The wail of the sirens sounding the all-clear after the first raid at the rush hour had hardly died away when another alert shrieked through the city. The second all-clear sounded not long after but ground guns could be heard in the outskirts.

A one-plane dive-bombing attack preceded the two alarms, coming so swiftly in a suburb that no general alarm was sounded

The "lone wolf" was reported to have dropped six high-explosive bombs, wrecking a portion of a commercial building. Five persons were reported injured.

Early risers en route to their jobs saw the plane hurtle down through the morning mists to an altitude of 2 000 feet, unload its cargo of explosives and roar away Several houses were damaged in the attack MORE clasfs8Au

While London was held under its rush-hour alert, other attackers were reported in the vicinity of a South Wales coast town apparently in continuation of the new nazi strategy of spreading bombs over a wide area of Britain by small group or single plane actions.

Midlands Blasted

Germany's aerial assaults on London slackened considerably during the night but squadrons of nazi bombers blasted at the industrial midlands furiously

Two public air-raid shelters were hit in one town in that area, but the loss of life was reported to be small and a government communique said the number of persons killed and injured throughout the country was "exceedingly small"

Strong forces of Royal Air Force bombers meanwhile attacked objectives in the Berlin area during widespread raids on Germany and German-occupied territory, the air ministry reported

The ministry did not specify what targets were bombed in the German capital but announced that oil plants, docks, shipping facilities, rail communications, goods yards, power stations and German airdromes were raided during the night

A communique said docks and shipping, oil plants and a power station were hit at Hamburg, indicating that important port was a major objective in the night's raiding.

Raids in Germany

Oil plants at Hanover and Gelsenkirchen and docks and shipping at Cuxhaven, Bremerhaven, Wilhelmshaven Rotterdam, Le Havre and Lorient were attacked, the communique reported, as well as railway communications and goods yards at Emmerich, Munster, Hamm, Bottrop and Duisburg

One British plane, the ministry said, failed to return.

The British capital had two raid alarms during the night, the forty-eighth since the total air warfare began The respite between the two was brief, but the second ended comparatively early — about 4 30 a m

The regular government communique did not even mention that London had been attacked.

In an unidentified midlands town the same one in which the shelters were struck, a motion picture house and a theater were hit and a fire bomb fell on a drug store. Other commercial and business properties also were reported damaged

Although reports early in the night said the raiders were coming over in greater numbers than in the last several nights, the government said "there was comparatively little enemy activity over the country last night

Rescue Squads Busy

A number of persons were caught in debris in London and rescue squads labored to free them

Air Marshal Sir Philip Joubert, taking official note of rumors that British anti-aircraft guns were wearing out and that ammunition was running short, said last night these reports were untrue and that the system of barrage fire had been abandoned when the raiders began their dodging tactics

"If the enemy can be lulled into a sense of false security so that he will fly straight for a short time, a salvo from several guns has a good chance of bursting near him," Sir Philip said in a broadcast. "Hence the pauses in firing—we are waiting the opportunity to get in a good burst . . . I can assure you that the situation is quite normal."

At Dover, the mists lifted today and the French coast could be seen across the channel. The sea was fairly calm with a cold northeast wind blowing. Nazi raiders, taking advantage of the more favorable weather, came across the coast this morning small formations which split up to in small formations which split up to attack London from different directions.

Battle in Air

Watchers in one town reported that British planes tackled a group of returning raiders. One German plane appeared to be losing height as it bolted for the coast with a Hurricane on its tail.

In London, K. C. Boxall, Associated Press traffic chief of the London Bureau, reported he had to hurl a woman downstairs into an air-raid shelter to save her and himself when he heard bombs falling while he was cycling to work.

"I heard the rush of bombs and dived for the shelter," he said. "The woman was blocking the entrance calling to her dog. I literally had to throw her down into the shelter We just made it

"The entrance to the shelter was spattered with broken glass and debris. A building beside the shelter was a shambles, with injured lying all over the street"

During one of the day raids a bomb fell near a London police station, wrecking a laundry van and damaging a water main.

New Traffic Plan

The London transport board announced a new system to facilitate travel during raids. In the future buses and street cars will carry on during raids, with road spotters at 123 vital points to keep watch and notify the drivers and passengers when to take cover

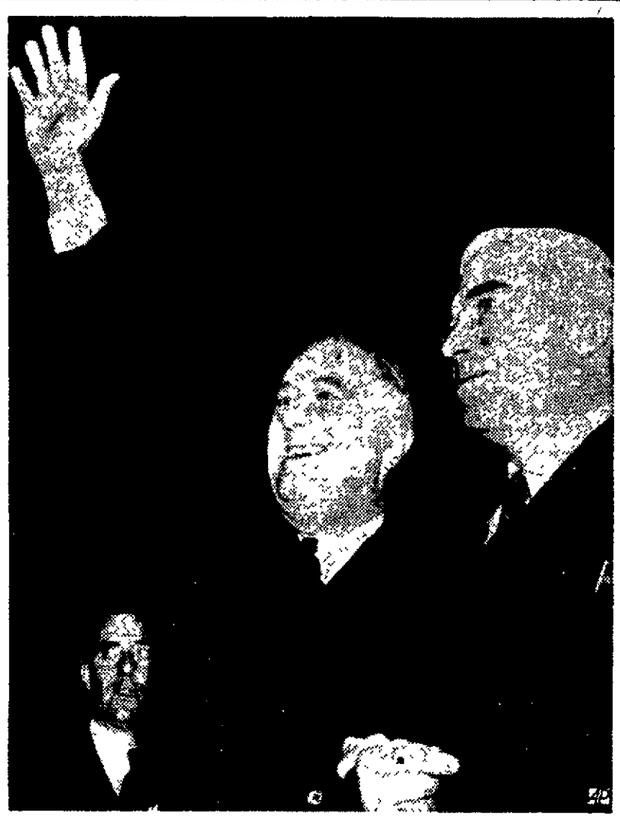
One stick of bombs in the day raiding demolished a London shop with flats above it. Rescuers recovered one body from the debris and continued digging

Three other bombs fell near another building and sent showers of glass flying in the street Several persons were believed killed

An oil bomb fell in a working class district, killing one person and injuring three.

Watchers saw a dogfight on the city's outskirts as British fighters struggled to keep the attackers from slipping through. One group of Spitfires was seen to drive off a formation of 20 raiders.

Another battle was fought in the clouds over the Thames estuary and observers reported one German plane appeared to have fallen out of control.



'FOR PEACE I SHALL LABOR'—On the arm of his naval aide, Captain Daniel J. Callaghan, President Roosevelt waved in reply to the acclamation of a crowd in Philadelphia which heard him declare "it is for peace I shall labor all the days of my life" It was the first of five political speeches the president has announced.

"I'd do anything in the world to right this thing," Mulrain replied "I think as much of Mr Willkie as anybody. It was just a boyish prank"

"All of us may not agree with what Mr Willkie says" said Judge O Connell, having ceased sneezing, "but we must defend his right to say it"

"The trouble with the whole think" said Bidwell, 'was that it gave Chicago a black eye'

ments and garden houses" the communique said

Informed sources said that German warplanes had been attacking London since early this morning with bombs of "heavier caliber" than usual after a series of night raids carried out despite adverse weather

Assessing the results of yesterday's raids on England, these sources said gigantic fires flashed in Birmingham and attacks were pressed home on a number of east coast ports and midlands industrial centers in addition to London

Industrial plants were destroyed in one town southwest of London, it was said.

Set Up Air Base

Rome —(AP)— An Italian air base has been established on the shore of the English channel and Italian bombers already have come back with 'marks of combat' from forays with their German comrades on London, Il Giornale d Italia reported today

A dispatch from this paper's war correspondents did not say when the Italian participation began but indicated it was in the last few days.

The Italian airmen returned "with joyous certainty of their first victory," the correspondent wrote from 'an Italian air base on the English channel."

The fascist bombers hammered at their targets 'for several hours" and their bombs, marked "made in Italy," exploded in London streets "to the Churchill crowds' desperate stupor" he declared.

He said that preparations for taking part in the luftwaffe's offensive on Britain had been in progress for some time The fascist air forces stationed in occupied France were described as "a tremendous mass of men and material"

Informed sources said Premier Mussolini personally had offered his air force for an intensified bombardment of Britain and the German high command accepted immediately.

Democratic Head Predicts New Deal Win in Wisconsin

New York — (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn yesterday predicted that President Roosevelt would carry the northwestern states of Minnesota Wisconsin and the Dakotas

"We are all right in those states," he said

Making what he called "a slight venture in the field of prophecy" at a press conference, Flynn asserted:

"You can start from New York and go clear around the rim of the nation and give every single state to Roosevelt as far at least, as Montana

'We claim all of the eastern seaboard outside of New England, as well as the southern states, the Pacific coast and the far northwest"

Flynn said he was "willing to give Willkie a chance" of carrying one of the three big midwestern states—Illinois Indian or Ohio—but said this did not mean he was there He refused to divulge in which of the three states the Democrats might lose.

Manitowoc—(AP)— The Manitowoc relief department has adopted a card system to check whether persons on relief are making sincere efforts to obtain employment in private industry.

The department said the system was installed after it was learned that only a small percentage of those on relief sought employment at shipyards which have expanded their forces due to government orders.

Landon Distinguishes Party Rivalry and U ,S. Disunity

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Ames, Iowa—The finest thing that has been said in this campaign so far as I know was said the other night by Alf M Landon

It was this 'First, I want to say to the dictators who are offering us alternate threats and bribes, that they are making a very grave error if they mistake the rivalry of a political campaign for disunity in the United States

Clapper

"We Americans do not conduct our political affairs with that attitude. As soon as the election is over, Democrats as well as Republicans will rally in the nation's interests to the support of the president of the United States. This vital and dominant attitude in American political life will not be changed by the bitterness of this campaign.

'Whoever is elected will be my president for the next four years '

I take these words seriously because Landon by his own example after his defeat in 1936 has already lived them Time and again he upheld the administration in questions involving foreign affairs He threw his not inconsiderable weight toward killing the Ludlow amendment for a referendum on war when Republicans were trying to make it a demogogic issue. He went to the Lima conference as a member of the American delegation and by his presence helped to impress upon Latin America the reality of our underlying unity.

It may be hoped that others will make the same pledge that Landon has made That does not require blind support of every proposal or every action Indeed Landon has been a severe critic of this administration. But when unity was important he contributed his share.

It will be important this time, more so that in any period we have seen This campaign is ending in a bitter struggle which is being fought through until the last voting place closes on election night The air is full of suspicion, of anxiety and of wondering doubts The third-term question has added to this state of mind and it is rapidly becoming the dominant question One hears it mentioned increasingly, though a few weeks ago it seemed scarcely to figure in the campaign.

Nation Must Get Behind Whichever Man is Elected

This time, more so than ordinarily, it will be important that we end this internal civil war Unless we do, the nation will be partially paralyzed and will find itself unable because of internal differences to do the things that will need to be done to achieve prompt defense, just as France was paralyzed by internal division

This is more important than any other immediate consideration It does not matter so much who is selected as it does that the nation accept the verdict of the majority, abide by the decision of the umpire, which is the electorate, and playing the game so that it can go on

Willkie began this campaign with a contribution to national unity by defying some of his own Republican leaders and endorsing the administration's underlying attitude toward foreign affairs. He threw away a chance to demagog on the subject of foreign affairs and thereby saved the country from a devastating experience.

Willkie's contribution was not entirely reciprocated, because from the start the Roosevelt administration tried to label him as an appeaser and tried by various ways to suggest that his election would be a victory for Hitler.

In this series of broadcasts Roosevelt has an opportunity to contribute toward greater solidarity. He, as well as his opposition, should be looking toward the day after election and to what will be needed then. We have much real work to do. Defense has only begun We face many a tense day and many a tense week. The war is far from over.

We cannot meet these tests if the defeated side is going to nurse the mood of the old toast: 'Our president, may he always be wrong But right or wrong, we hate him" Nor can we meet if the victor squanders his victory in an orgy of vengeance.

The open season on egg-throwing should end abruptly on Nov. 5 It is too late for such luxuries.

Willkie Gaining in State of New York, Gallup Poll Shows

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—One of the biggest question marks of the presidential campaigns is where New York state will be on election day, with its 47 electoral votes—more than the total electoral votes of the eight Rocky Mountain states.

An important factor in determining Democratic and Republican strength in the state is the problem of determining how the substantial bloc of new voters in New York city will vote. Which party stands to gain most by the 17 per cent increase in registration throughout the city?

Latest samplings by the Institute, covering the period Oct. 14-22, find the state continues to be in Roosevelt's column, but by a reduced majority. Willkie has gained one full percentage point since the last reported poll Hence the race, which was close in New York a week ago, is even closer today.

New York State
Today's Poll

Roosevelt	51%
Willkie	49

Oct. 18 Poll

Roosevelt	52%
Willkie	48

In both surveys the proportion of voters undecided in their choice was 9 per cent.

Approximately one-half of New York state s vote in a national election is cast in the city, and the other half in the upstate areas. As everybody knows, the city has in the past gone overwhelmingly Democratic and the rest of the state overwhelmingly Republican The same situation prevails today, although the survey finds a sharper loss for Roosevelt in the city than in the upstate areas since the 1936 election.

In that year the President carried the city with 76 per cent of the major party vote, upstate he polled 45 per cent Here are the poll results today.

	Roosevelt	Willkie
New York City	61%	39%
Upstate	40	60
Total State	51	49

In view of the fact that the one per cent difference between the strength of the two candidates for the whole state is well within the probable error in sampling techniques—which is 4 per cent on the average—New York state cannot be regarded in any light except as doubtful at this time.

Favor Roosevelt

Politicians and political observers have been anxiously pondering the meaning of the increase in registration in New York city. Who are these new registrants and how will they vote?

The answer is vital to the campaign, for the vote of this new bloc may spell the difference between success and failure for one candidate or the other in a close election.

To get some indication of the presidential preference of the new voters, the Institute interviewed 3,500 registrants during the last two days of registration, either as they stood in line before the registration booths, or as they came out

The results indicate that the Democrats stand to gain by the increase in registration. The new registrants are apparently planning to vote the way the majority of other people in the city are voting—that is, for Roosevelt.

The interviewing showed the following:

Special Poll of Registrants—New York City

	Roosevelt	Willkie
New Registrants	61%	39%
All others	61	39

Since registrations in Democratic New York City went up 17 per cent as compared to only 7 per cent in the Republican upstate areas, the Democrats will by and large profit most from the increase.

Vitamin D, Calcium May Retard Healing Of Fractured Bones

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Chicago—(AP)—Evidence that the healing of broken bones is delayed by the practice of a popular belief of laity and doctors in the supposed aid of vitamin D and calcium, was presented to the American College of Sugeons Thudsday.

Dr. Edward L. Compere of Chicago said that because of this belief, a surgeon who treats broken bones without giving vitamin D and calcium is criticized for not keeping up-to-date.

He reported that experiments on animals, backed by human evidence, showed that too great an intake of vitamin and calcium may delay recovery. The animals were hundreds of rats. Some were fed ordinary well-balanced diets. Others were given extra vitamin D and calcium. A third group was deprived of these two essentials.

When these animals legs were broken, those on the ordinary diet mended fastest. Those with the deficiency of the vitamin and mineral healed faster than the rats receiving the popularly supposed aid of vitamin and calcium.

Dr. Compere said he has concluded that adults can do without the added vitamin and calcium. This, he added, does not apply to children with rickets.

3 Million Boost In Tax Receipts

General Property Levies Decrease In State This Year

Madison—(P)— Wisconsin taxpayers paid $204,677,479 in various forms of levies during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940, Elmer Barlow, state tax commissioner, announced today. The total for the preceding year was $201,368,105.

In the annual report of the tax commission, prepared for the county boards, Barlow stated that general property taxes amounting to $110,834,995, which comprised 53.61 per cent of the total, dropped $1,115,718, while income tax receipts increased by $2,929,257.

Public utility taxes, paid by heat, power and light plants and communication and transportation firms, amounted to $14,783,461, about $345,000 more than the preceding year.

Occupational taxes, which include liquor, tobacco, oleomargarine and other levies, netted $23,857,244. The oleomargarine tax produced only $5.

The state collected $17,658,438 in individual and corporation income taxes, and $3,508,053 in gift and inheritance taxes.

Motor vehicle taxes, which include the gasoline, license plate and other levies produced $35,151,006, the largest single item wholly collected and distributed by the state.

The state distributed $3,878,250 in county school aids, and $37,005,276 in other state aid, $8,029,200 of which went to school districts. Counties received $4,356,814 in state trunk allotments.

The total assessed valuation of all real and personal property in the state is $4 353 503 414, the report said.

62,000 Children are Taken Out of Berlin To Escape Bombings

Berlin —(P)— Sixty-two thousand school children under 14 years of age have been transported from Berlin to escape recurrent losses of sleep because of British bomb raids and nazi party officials said today another 30,000 are to be removed from the city.

The same sources announced that 42,000 children had been removed from Hamburg, Germany's great port which British bombers have been attacking almost nightly.

The number of children removed from other cities repeatedly attacked has not been reported.

The children are removed only when the parents voluntarily permit, officials emphasized. For the most part they have been taken into the highland country districts of Thuringia, Silesia and upper Bavaria.

The youngsters from Berlin were loaded into trains and placed in charge of teachers who will help them continue their studies.

The exodus from Berlin already represents approximately 10 per cent of the school population of 650,000.

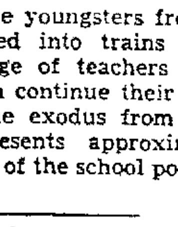
MONEY! MONEY! MONEY! SPAM $2 BILLS MAKE HIT

Spam Followers Loudly Acclaim $2 Bill Movement

By THE SPAM MAN



If I were to suddenly stop you on the street and say, "I will pay you a crisp, new $2 bill for your opinion of Spam IF you can PROVE that you are a Spam user" could you prove it? It is really very simple, folks; all you have to do is carry the metal strip and key from a can of Spam, in your purse or in your pocket. Please don't delay — you may be stopped suddenly on the street or unexpectedly at your home. Visit or call your local grocer and get that can of Spam. The next time we meet you may be the recipient of a new $2 bill—for your opinion of Spam and the key and attached metal strip. Your "ship is in;" let's all go out and meet it. Don't forget, however, to take the necessary proof with you. This little token may mean the step between happiness and disappointment.

"I didn't imagine that you would get way out here," said MRS. WALTER ROHDE, 1703 W. Summer St., and she quickly laid down her iron — ironing in the kitchen at the time I called—and produced her Spam key with the attached metal strip. According to Mrs. Rohde, Spam is most delicious when mixed with cooked lima beans and cream sauce. This suggestion was worth a new $2 bill.

MRS. E. O. BOHNSACK, 1210 W. Spring St., was beating rugs in the front yard when I called at her home. What was most surprising to her was the fact that there was so much meat in one can—enough to serve at least four people the meat course of a full course dinner. The key and attached metal strip was sufficient evidence that she is a Spam user. Ask Mrs. Bohnsack to show you the crisp $2 bill I paid her for the above opinion.

Ironing day seems to be a good days to call on the Appleton homes. I found MRS. CATHERINE WEISS, 1223 W. Bennett St., ironing some clothes when I called. Down went the iron; up from the basement came the can; into her purse went the $2 bill. "The ideal meat for children's school lunches," said Mrs. Weiss.

"This will go in my little boy's bank," said MRS. O. W. HELM, 1332 W. Lawrence St., as I handed her a crackly, new $2 bill for a most worthy opinion of Spam. The Spam key with attached metal strip was evidence enough that Mrs. Helm is a good Spam user.

This is a good time to put those storm windows thought MRS. S. JOHNSON, 123 S. Mason St. It certainly was, Mrs. Johnson. I no sooner identified myself when she showed me several full cans of Spam on her shelf. She has used so much Spam in the past year that it would be almost impossible to get along without it. For this, I handed her a crisp $2 bill.

MRS. OMER SCHMIRLER, 104 W. Wisconsin Ave., says, "Spam is the best lunch meat I have ever found that the whole family agrees on." To prove this she showed me a full can of Spam. I left Mrs. Schmirler $2 happier.

MORE SPAM USERS

Among the many more Spam users, we find: CARLETON GRISHABER, 528 E. McKinley St.; DAN HECHEL, Northern Boiler & Structural Iron Works; MRS. P. F. STALLMAN, 518 E. Wisconsin Ave.; MRS. M. FLANNIGAN, 330 E. So. River St.; MISS JANE FRIEDERS, 548 N. Clark St.; JOHN C. DIETRICH, Appleton Woolen Mills; MRS. W. WHITROCK, 1109 S. Lawe St.; MRS. GUS DOERFLER, 1307 S. Lawe St; MRS. JOHN HECHTMAN, Menasha; MRS. ORSON STRUCK, 615 W. 5th St; R. W. NEHLS, 227 W. Washington St; MRS. JAMES SMITH, 1421 N. Clark St; MRS. ED CAMPSHURE, 1615 N Appleton St; MRS. LEE MEYER, 1316 N. Appleton St; MRS. S. ROSEN, 322 E. Harris St; MRS. TED RADTKE, 1525 N. Oneida St.; MRS. ROLAND HAASE, 510 E. Randall St.; and MRS. H. B. LEITH, 421 E. Brewster St.

. . . AND STILL MORE

MENASHA

Some people in Menasha to receive $2 bills were: MRS. NINA GERUGHTY, 407 Naymut St; MRS. CLIFFORD MAAS, 728 2nd St; MRS. CLARENCE ROSE, 813 3rd St; MRS. EDWARD SPICE, 808 Broad St; MRS. N. C. SCHMETZER, 820 8th St, MRS. FLORIAN KAMINSKI, 732 Manitowoc St; MRS. ED KARLIN, 711½ Appleton St, MRS. A. KUEHL, 121 5th St; and in NEENAH we find. I. M. RAUSCH, 240 E. Doty Ave; ALFRED LANGE, 611 Doty Ave, MRS. E. I. GOLDNER, 217 S. Park Ave, MISS MAY HART, 206 Winneconne Ave; MRS. E. C. JAPE, 547 Fairview, MRS. AL KALKOSKE, 417 7th St.

"YES," to answer MRS. WALTER ROHDE'S, 1703 W. Summer St., question, "we Spam Men and Spam Girls are way out to your place and everyone else's place. We are covering Appleton and surrounding territory like the proverbial "blanket." When we leave this vicinity we want to feel that all of you people have had an equal opportunity to receive a $2 bill for an opinion of Spam. Don't disappoint us when we call at your home.

Grant County Man Wins Wisconsin Corn Husking Title

Lone Rock, Wis.—(P)—While more than 8,000 persons looked on, a 22-year-old Grant county farmer, Omar Koopman, of Bloomington, carried off first honors in the Wisconsin corn-husking championship yesterday.

Koopman picked a net of 2,073¼ pounds of corn—29.61 bushels—as he paced through a cornfield for 80 minutes on the Oscar Gudknecht farm four miles north of Lone Rock.

It was Koopman's second state title. He won first place in 1937.

Choose Restaurant Food Carefully and Eat Slowly

Madison — "When you buy your lunch in a restaurant, choose the food carefully and eat it slowly," the state medical society says in a health bulletin received today.

"The American business man or woman who eats at a table-service or counter restaurant is a slave to the menu. Usually, he goes into the restaurant, takes one quick look at the daily specials, and orders some combination that is already prepared and suggested to him by the management. Rarely does he take the trouble to select a lunch that's suited to his needs and requirements.

"Correct diet for the individual, including his lunch, depends to a certain extent upon occupation. The office worker who sits all day at a desk requires less food than does the out-of-door worker who is using muscles as well as brains. The habit has grown up with many individuals of omitting breakfast, lunching very lightly, and eating as much as they please for dinner. This isn't good practice. If a light lunch is desired, a substantial breakfast should be eaten, and it will then be unnecessary to eat excessively at dinner time. If a lunch must be quick, it's probably better that it should be light and there's no harm in a light lunch if the other two meals make up the difference.

Eat Too Rapidly

"The worst feature about the quick lunch is that we eat so rapidly that we don't have time for proper choice of food, deliberate eating, and a reasonable time after eating before we return to work. Calm, peace, and relaxation should surround a meal. When we consider that the places where most of us eat are crowded, hurried and noisy at mid-day, we find that we have surroundings which add nothing to enjoyment and incidentally don't set the stage favorably for good digestion.

"Not only is hurry a bad feature of the quick lunch, but the food which is selected by many persons, though it may be good enough in itself doesn't contribute toward the dietary needs of the individual. It is in the years between fifteen and thirty that tuberculosis most often attacks the individual, and women are twice as likely to have tuberculosis as men. Undernourishment is a great factor in favoring tuberculosis. Many a young girl working for small pay, attempts to economize on her lunch by buying as little as she can and further complicates matters by choosing unwisely because she's afraid she'll be overweight.

"In youth, when a reasonable degree of overweight is a margin of safety against tuberculosis we find a preponderance of underweight, especially among women. Among old persons, where slenderness is considered an asset favoring good health and long life, we find overweight which grows more and more difficult to conquer as the years go by."

Gas Pipeline Hearing May be Concluded by Tomorrow at Madison

Madison —(P)— Representatives of the federal power commission hope to conclude by tomorrow a hearing on the application of the Independent Natural Gas company for authority to construct a pipeline from its western fields to Wisconsin.

The utility was prepared to submit the last of its testimony and it will be up to the commission to decide whether it should accept jurisdiction or leave the question of granting a permit to the state public service commission.

Before a disposition on jurisdiction is reached, however, rulings will have to be made on the admissibility of certain evidence which opposition groups sought to introduce.

Examiner Ewing B. Simpson previously refused to accept testimony from railroads, coal dealers and Milwaukee labor unions on the "economic effects" of piping natural gas into the state. They had sought to show they would be adversely affected.

Application of the independent company was the second to be heard by the federal commission. Simpson has under advisement the request of the Western Natural Gas company for a construction permit.

Prices of Sweet Clover Seed Advance 5 Cents

Washington—(P)—The agricultural marketing service reported sweet clover seed prices advanced about 5 cents per 100 pounds in September to an Oct. 1 average of $3.55.

Prices on Oct. 1 last year averaged $3.90 and the 1934-38 Oct. average was $3.90.

Movement of the crop to market by Oct. 1 totaled about 40 per cent, slightly below last year's Oct. 1 figure but virtually equal to the 1934-38 Oct. 1 average.

Losses in cleaning averaged 22 per cent, or 2 per cent below last year's figure.

Imports in September totaled 80,400 pounds as against 47,000 pounds in September of last year and a 5-year September average of 84,340 pounds.

Former Wisconsin Man Held for Bad Checks

New York —(P)— George F. Delaney, 29, salesman and former Highland, Wis., commercial airlines pilot, was arrested last night on a complaint by Harry Maas, sheriff of Keokuk, Iowa, charging that he had issued a bad check for $350.

Detective William Chaplein, who made the arrest, said Delaney also is wanted in Minneapolis, Minn., on a charge of having obtained $250 under false pretenses.

Bowl Used in First Draft of World War Center of Dispute

BY EDDY GILMORE

Washington —(P)— Like the historic houses in which George Washington slept, the historic goldfish bowl that housed the World war's first draft lottery is multiplying with time.

After 23 years there appear to be at least three claimants to the title so it might be a good idea to hold onto any strays around the house. In time you can't tell what they might be worth.

Selective service officials, however, recognize the glass container kept at Independence hall, Philadelphia, as the original and as such it will be used here for next Tuesday's lottery.

The question of exactly what bowl was used back in World war days arises from 1917 vintage pictures which show draft numbers being drawn from:

1. A container with straight sides.
2. A container with an extremely pinched neck.
3. A container with a medium pinched neck.

Two of the pictures shown Secretary of War Newton D. Baker doing the drawing. He's taking capsules from the straight sided container in one picture. In another it's the bowl with the extreme neck.

The third picture shows President Wilson drawing from a bowl with a medium sized neck.

The container to be used in the national lottery has straight sides and there's an established story that this was one of the features sought by the draft board.

Selective service officials don't explain the mystery of the trio of bowls, but other historians say that the two non-originals probably saw service in draft drawings subsequent to the opening lottery on July 20, 1917.

Anyhow, officials emphasize that the big glass jar to be used next Tuesday is not a goldfish bowl.

And it probably did not cost the government a cent.

Drug Victim Changes Name in New York

New York—(P)—A young woman whose identity has been a 10-day mystery at Bellevue hospital while she lay in a drug-induced stupor changed her name today and said she was Winifred Rutz, 29, of Chicago.

Previously, rousing briefly from her sleep, she described herself as Marian Nevins of Chicago, and said she had tried to end her life because she considered herself a social failure.

Hospital authorities said Mrs. Elizabeth Rutz, of Chicago, described by the girl as an aunt, had confirmed as correct the last name given by the patient.

The girl took 100 grains of sleeping potion in a fashionable hotel, the Pierre, because she wanted to die "in style," said Detective Hyman Weinstein.

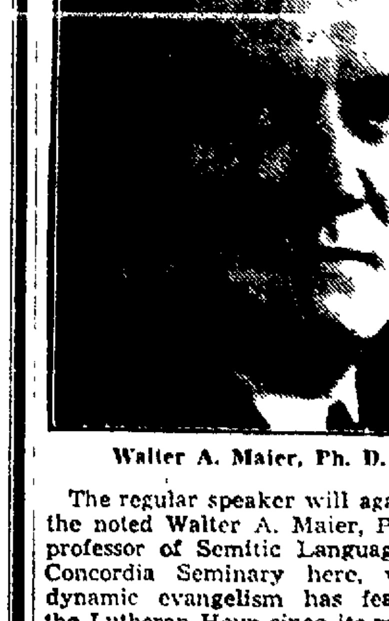
127 Station Lutheran Hour Network Resumes Oct. 27

ST. LOUIS — (Special). — The coast-to-coast broadcast of the Lutheran Hour will be resumed Sunday, October 27, on a network of 127 stations of the Mutual Broadcasting System. In addition approximately 100 stations here and abroad will carry the program by electrical transcription.



Walter A. Maier, Ph. D.

The regular speaker will again be the noted Walter A. Maier, Ph. D., professor of Semitic Languages at Concordia Seminary here, whose dynamic evangelism has featured the Lutheran Hour since its modest beginning over the Mutual Network five years ago.

The first broadcast of the new series will be from 1:30 to 2:00 p. m., New York Time, over a group of stations in the Eastern part of the country, with a repeat broadcast over WTAQ, Appleton, or WISN from 3:30 to 4:00. Louis Waltman, Jr., has charge of all local publicity.

The remarkable expansion of the Lutheran Hour has been the result of unusual listener interest and response to its message, the declared purpose of which is to "Bring Christ to the Nation." More than 200,000 letters were received from listeners during the last season of broadcasting—as many as 12,500 letters being received in one week.

A Braille department has been established to handle the increasingly large volume of mail coming from blind listeners, and the services of linguists are in constant need because of the many letters from abroad and from listeners in foreign-language groups. Correspondents range from persons high in the social, industrial and political world to prisoners in many penal institutions, miners and trappers in isolated frontier camps, and from men and women heavily burdened with life's problems.

Dr. Maier, a graduate of Boston University, Concordia Seminary and Harvard, is widely noted for the vigor and sincerity of his spiritual message, and for his strict adherence to fundamental Christian doctrine. His condemnation of Communism and other atheistic doctrines has been widely praised by clergymen and laymen of various denominations.

The Lutheran Hour will be heard regularly each Sunday afternoon throughout the fall, winter and spring. As in the past, choral music for the broadcasts will be furnished by either the Lutheran Hour Chorus or the St. Louis A Cappella Choir—the former a selected group of male singers from Concordia Seminary, the latter a mixed chorus of 60 voices. —ADV.

County Officers, Federal Men to Study Food Plan

Stamp System Will Be Discussed at Conference Monday

The Outagamie county board's executive committee and representatives of the Surplus Marketing administration which is in charge of the federal food stamp plan, will consider the plan for Outagamie county at 10:30 Monday morning at the courthouse.

The federal men conferred with Appleton officials about the plan yesterday but, because the plan is being designated only for counties, made no decision. John Taggert, certification agent told city officials that he has been authorized to make a survey of Outagamie county to determine whether the plan can be worked out here.

Emil Frost in charge of public relations said expansion of the plan to 11 Wisconsin and six Minnesota counties this month will make the benefits of the program available to new areas with a population of more than a half million persons.

"The program in these 17 counties will send approximately $1,750,000 worth of free 'blue stamp' dollars through regular food trade channels and 83 per cent of the present list of surplus farm products which can be purchased with the blue stamps are produced by Wisconsin and Minnesota farmers," he said.

Boosts Purchases

The food stamp plan would be available for all persons receiving relief aids and increases their purchasing power by 50 per cent. Explaining the 'blue stamp' dollar, Frost pointed out that the average person participating in the plan receives about $2 worth of blue stamps a month free when he purchases an average of $4 worth of orange stamps.

"The federal government pays for the blue stamps out of funds appropriated by congress to help move farm supplies," he asserted. "Money from this same fund also is used for direct government purchases of surpluses which are distributed through surplus commodity depots. When the food stamp plan goes into effect in a county the direct distribution of commodities is discontinued."

Money earmarked by congress for expansion of the plan in Minnesota and Wisconsin also has set in motion organization work which will extend the plan into 25 other counties in the two states by Jan. 1.

Anesthesia Styled For Individual Now Possible, Medics Told

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

Chicago—A new medical science, anesthesia styled to fit individual patient during a surgical operation, was described to the American College of Surgeons today.

In some of the nation's most progressive institutions, it was shown, the anesthetic even may be changed from time to time during a single operation, to fit the patient's response, or the surgeon's momentary need for more complete immobility of organs near his instruments.

This new science of styled anesthesia comes from two fairly recent developments. One is the larger number of new and varied anesthetics. The other is the rise of a profession of scientifically trained men and women who devote all their time to study of anesthesia.

Some of their new techniques were discussed at a joint meeting of surgeons and anesthetists, conducted by Doctors Erwin R. Schmidt, University of Wisconsin; Virginia Apgar, New York; Charles J. Betlach, Chicago, and F. W. Hartman, Ford hospital, Detroit.

Dr. Schmidt spoke a good word for small, rural hospitals where new methods are not always available. They do good work with the old anesthetics, he said, and paid tribute to the skill of the sisters who administer anesthetics in Catholic hospitals.

Consider Acting Head For State University

Madison—(AP)—University of Wisconsin regents will meet here tomorrow to decide whether an acting president should be appointed during the absence of Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, national draft administrator.

Dykstra who recently was given an indefinite leave to accept the federal post, was expected here from Washington to attend the meeting

The question of naming a temporary successor, university sources said, would depend on whether Dykstra felt he could handle the university presidency and the selective service post at the same time.

If an acting president is named the choice is expected to be between Dean George C. Sellery, of the college of letters and science; Dean E B. Reed, of the graduate school, and Dean Chris L. Christensen of the college of agriculture.

4,000 Present at Harvest Festival At Clintonville

Contests and Dance Feature Program Given By Business Group

Clintonville—A crowd of nearly 4,000 persons attended the third annual harvest festival Thursday at Clintonville. Over 3,500 plates were served at the free lunch at the armory at noon. Serving the farmers were dozens of Clintonville business men dressed in overalls and dark shirts. If any of the committee members reported for duty "dressed up" and wearing a neck-tie, the tie was promptly snipped off by someone wielding a pair of scissors.

To feed this crowd of people it required 1,000 pounds of barbecued beef, 400 loaves of bread, 300 pounds of navy beans, a barrel of dill pickles, 250 dozen doughnuts and 60 pounds of coffee. W. H. Shultz chairman of the lunch committee, said they had plenty of everything but there was not enough left to feed more than a dozen persons.

The day's festivities were ushered in with the blowing of whistles at 10 o'clock in the morning, after which there were airplane stunts over the city. A number of contests took place in which the following prizes were awarded:

Counties in Appleton Area May Have More Assemblymen

Post-Crescent Madison Bureaun

Madison—When the 1941 legislature this winter considers the decennial problem of the boundaries of Wisconsin legislative districts, any changes may give the Appleton area counties added representation, a survey here showed today.

The constitution requires that the legislature consider legislative districts after each federal census. Both the senate and the assembly, however, have already reached their maximum possible membership under the constitution, so that only revision of the present boundaries and a reapportionment of legislative representation is likely if legislators decide to take positive action.

The latest census figures show that Wisconsin's 100 assemblymen represent an average of 31,258 residents apiece.

Changes in population trends in recent years, however, have resulted in considerably greater ratios in some of the eastern counties of the state.

Under Average In West

Outagamie county, for example, with 70,000 people, has two assemblyman, or an average of 35,000 population for each. Brown county, with two assemblyman, has a population of more than 82,000, so that each of its representatives serve more than 41,000 persons. Many other counties, however, particularly in the west central and northern parts of the state, have less than the state average, and thus more than the average nunmber of legislative representatives.

Because so many of the problems before the legislature are disposed of on a regional basis, particularly tax, labor and agricultural proposals, the distribution of legislative voting strength assumes considerable political importance.

The League of Wisconsin Municipalities, pointing out that local government in Wisconsin has a close connection with census counts, this week issued a bulletin explaining the effect of state laws based on population.

The league's legal counsel said that in his opinion the federal census figures become effective when census bureau officials announce them. The earliest date at which city and village officials may be required to act on population changes is the date of the first preliminary announcement, he said The preliminary counts were published several months ago, it was pointed out.

Outline Plans For Halloween Night Program

Recreation Group And Kiwanis Club To Sponsor Carnival

Neenah — Plans are being shaped for the Halloween carnival for Neenah children which will be sponsored by the Recreation commission and the Kiwanis club Thursday evening, Oct. 31, at the recreation building. Paul Stacker, general chairman, reported today.

There will be no admission charge to the carnival, it has been decided, and the program, which will get underway at 5:30 in the afternoon and conclude sometime before midnight, has been expanded. There will be more events and a larger variety of activities in order to make it continuous.

One of the feature acts of the floor show which has been booked is George Fielder and his dog. Another headlining event will be a jitterbug contest, and still another is five feels of sound motion pictures.

Stacker is seeking talent for the floor show which will be staged during the intermission of dancing and which will include novelty numbers, magicians, dancing and singing. Robert Wood, who has formed a band of young Neenah musicians, will furnish the music. There will be a BB shooting gallery supervised by the Neenah police department and a new wrinkle in novelty contests, a blow football game, and guessing games.

Many prizes will be awarded to winners of contests, and every child who attends will get free ice cream cones, apples and orange drinks.

The program will be divided into two parts, will begin at 5:30 for children under 12 years of age. For the older children, the program will start at 8:30 with a parade from the business district to the recreation center.

District Music Clubs Reelect Menasha Woman as President

Menasha—Mrs. H. J. C. Rosenow, Riverway drive, was renamed president of the Sixth district, Wisconsin Federation of Music clubs, during the business sessions Thursday as the music department of the Economics club of Menasha was hostess to more than 60 delegates from Waupun, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, and Neenah-Menasha.

Mrs. A. D. Sutherland, Fond du Lac, was re-chosen vice president; Mrs. A. Westermeyer, Sheboygan, secretary and Mrs. W. A. Lawson, Rosendale, treasurer.

Delegates registered at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Miss Edna Robertson, chairman of the hostess club, welcomed the group and Mrs. A. D. Sutherland responded.

Franklyn LeFevre, director of vocal music in the Menasha schools, guest speaker at the luncheon at Hotel Menasha, told the club members about his work in the Menasha schools and pointed out that he believed every child should have musical training because it gives him a means of expression, uncovers special talents, aids in successful living since it develops cultural appreciation and carries over into after school living since it gives youth an opportunity to participate in church and club music.

Dix Is Guest Artist

Guest artist on the convention program was Edward Dix of the Conservatory of Music at Lawrence college, who presented two piano solos. "The Fountain" by Ravel and "La Campanella" by Liszt-Bussoni and an encore number.

Mrs. John Edward Rueth, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Music clubs, was the guest speaker during the afternoon, discussing with Sixth district delegates the federation aims for the future. The federation's chief objective is promotion of American music and American artists, she stated. The state federation will introduce another bill in the legislature for a state supervisor of music, is urging all clubs to present federation winners on its program and is backing the American Society of Composers and Artists in its current difficulty.

Mrs. Rueth discussed at some length the controversial issue of the American Society of Composers and Publishers and broadcasting companies. The American Society of Composers and Publishers, which the federation is backing, has asked a fee of nine million dollars in its new contract with the radio stations. The radio companies have refused to consider such a fee and have formed an organization known as the M.B.I. which will hire composers and publishers to write the songs for radio. ASCAP, founded by Victor Herbert to protect composers and publishers, if its contract is not renewed, will bar the singing and playing of the songs and music of composers under its jurisdiction from the air.

The women's chorus of the Menasha club presented two vocal selections, "A Song of Joy" by Clara Edwards, and "Heah de Win' Blowin'" by Kimbrough. Mrs. N. F. Vertrick sang the contralto obligato for the last selection.

Sings "Ave Maria"

Muriel Godfrey, Sheboygan, accompanied by Mrs. Herman Buchheim, presented the contralto solo, "Ava Maria" by Schubert. Richard Warnecke, Sheboygan, sang "Invictus" and "Southern Serenade" with Mrs. Alvin Elvers accompanying.

Miss Arlene Bender, Sheboygan, played the violin selection, "The Skaters' Waltz" with Miss Helen Schwalbe as accompanist.

Joan Miller of the Mozart club of Neenah played the piano solo "Romance Sans Paroles" by Saint-Saens and Mrs. J. A. Nansen, Waupun, sang "The Ninety and Ninth" by Sheldon. Miss Leona Langman, Sheboygan, played a violin number, "Hejre Kati". Miss Joan Peerenboom, Menasha, member of the Nevin Junior club of Neenah-Menasha, played Brahms' "Hungarian Dance No. 7" on the piano. Mrs. Anna Schram Imig, Sheboygan, sang "Voce di Donna" by Ponchielli and Mrs. Alvin Elvers, Sheboygan, presented the piano solo "Malaguena" by Lucuono.

Representing the Fond du Lac Music club, Mrs. Frank Collins sang three Soprano solos, "Lady Picking Mulberries" by E. S. Kelly, "Flowers" by Beck and "Norwegian Echo Song" by Throne.

During the morning, William Roth Neenah, played the piano solo, "Fantasia" in C Minor by Mozart and Robert Mason, Neenah, played "Ariel" by Kern.

Menasha Elks Lodge Selects Defense Group

H. L. Sherman Heads Committee to Join In National Program

Menasha — A national defense committee which will help to carry out the general program of the 500,000 members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in this country, has been named by Ray J. Fink, exalted ruler of Menasha lodge No. 676. Members of the Menasha committee are H. L. Sherman, chairman; Alvin Lang, Hugh Geibel, R. M. Woodhead, and Jerry Slavik.

The 3-point national program includes "uphold and teach Americanism and our democratic form of government; discover and report treasonable, subversive, and fifth column activities in America and assist in the physical development of the youth of our country." The program was built largely on suggestions by the secretary of war, the secretary of navy, and the director of the federal bureau of investigation.

Members of the Menasha defense committee will plan a program to promote the education work suggested in the first point of the program. The defense program is part of plan set up at the national Elks convention at Houston, Tex., in July.

A campaign to expand vocational training in the public schools, having in mind the importance of mechanized units in modern warfare, also is part of the supplementary program. Promoting the general and constant display of the flag and organizing the mothers, wives and daughters of the members for cooperation in the general defense program of the lodge and particularly to contribute to the comfort of the boys in army camps are two other points.

U. S. Leads World In Aviation, Club Told at Luncheon

Neenah—Declaring that the United States leads the world in aviation Robert Morgan, Wisconsin representative of the Transcontinental and Western Airlines corporation, told the Neenah Rotary club in a talk Thursday noon at the Valley Inn that flying no longer is a venturesome sport. It is big business.

Aviation has set a new record in safe transportation, he contended.

A new field in commercial aviation has been opened, 4-engine ships, Morgan said. It is a complete departure from anything before, he contended and pointed out that the new stratoliner is soother riding, speedier and more spacious.

Morgan, who has flown around the world several times, described an airplane trip over the Andes when he saw the famous statue, Christ of the Andes, on the highest peak dividing Chile and Argentina.

Airplanes are seldom discarded because of age. Equipment built 10 or 15 years ago still are in use, having been repaired and rebuilt. Old Ford planes built in 1926 are still being used in Central America, he said.

ARMY TRIES CAMOUFLAGE SUITS—Here's the latest in proposed uniforms for the Army—the camouflaged sniper suit—as tried out at Fort Belvoir, Va., by members of an engineers batallion. They're made of a printed cotton material and are said to fool the enemy. The chap at left has his on as his companion steps into a pair of the "pajamas."

Political Battle Ground

For the remaining days of the presidential campaign, this space will be provided for the major political parties to present their arguments in behalf of their candidates. The material is provided by the national committees of the two parties.

PRESIDENT WON'T DEBATE BY CARTER FIELD

Why is the Third Term Candidate unwilling to debate with Wendell Willkie? At first he told the country he was too much occupied with affairs of state—too busy INSPECTING defense plants. He could not give a thought to politics.

But NOW he IS NOT too busy to talk politics.

He says so HIMSELF.

He announces that he will make FIVE political addresses.

So NOW the New Deal Candidate DOES have time for political discussion.

Then why does he not accept Willkie's challenge to a public debate?

Just recently the Third Term Candidate announced he would speak in Baltimore.

Wendell Willkie already had an engagement to speak there the same night. He had engaged the biggest hall in town.

Willkie offered to let the Third Term Candidate SHARE THE STAGE that night.

The Third Term Candidate promptly cancelled his Baltimore speech—transferred it to Brooklyn. At the White house the intimation was given that no direct invitation had been received by the Third Term Candidate for a debate.

Plenty Of Offers

Everybody in America knew that Willkie wanted a joint debate with the Third Term Candidate except the Third Term Candidate.

Do YOU have any doubt WHY the Third Term Candidate does not want to debate with Wendell Willkie?

Do you SUSPECT that he is AFRAID?

Any good actor can READ a speech beautifully.

The New Deal has one of the best speech-writing machines in the country's history. At its head is now Charley Michelson. It has lost some of its best minds. Men like Ray Moley Hugh Johnson and many others could not stomach the third term "draft," the senseless waste of YOUR money, the swashbuckling efforts to incite this country to go to war, and the dread that the Third Term Candidate would put us into war ANYHOW.

But it is ONE thing to read a speech —quite ANOTHER to ANSWER an attack, WITHOUT having the answer prepared for you.

That's WHY the Third Term Candidate won't debate!

Robert Taylor or Errol Flynn could READ Michelson's speeches even better than Roosevelt.

But YOU wouldn't vote for them for President! Or would you?

MR. WILLKIE'S SCARE CAMPAIGN

Preceding with his apparently deliberate and systematic campaign to gain possible votes for himself by arousing fear in the minds of the American people by his repeated hints and suggestions that President Roosevelt will lead the country into some foreign war if he is reelected, Wendell L. Willkie tried out a new one in his Chicago speech Tuesday night.

This time he had American boys "already almost on the transports."

And just how does Mr. Willkie charge that President Roosevelt is going to get us into a foreign war?

Apparently by doing the very things Mr. Willkie himself approves!

The idea seems to be that, if Mr. Willkie does them, they won't get us into war, but that, if Mr. Roosevelt does them, they will!

Observing that "the whole policy of the Willkie campaign is to frighten the American people," Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, chairman of the Senate Naval Appropriations Committee and Democratic leader in the Senate, says:

"The Willkieites hint that, with Mr. Roosevelt in office, we are heading toward war. Well, Mr. Willkie says he is in favor of all preparedness measures we have undertaken. He says he is also in favor of all aid to Britain short of war.

Favoring those policies, Mr. Willkie and his supporters say that, if you follow them under Roosevelt, you will, in some mysterious way, go to war, but that, if you follow the same policies under Mr. Willkie, you will stay at peace!

Then they keep hinting that the President has made some mysterious commitment that will get us into war.

"I am a very temperate man. I've been in the House and Senate for twenty-five years. I differ with Mr. Roosevelt about domestic issues at times.

"But I don't believe any President —Republican or Democrat—would be guilty of making any such a secret arrangement with any foreign power. If President Roosevelt did that, he should be impeached. I'd vote to do it.

"I know that this is a cruel slander, it is a reckless, irresponsible statement.

"Within a month, Mr. Willkie heard the President say in a radio speech, just as you and I heard him say: 'I hate and abhor war. My sole purpose, my only hope is to keep this nation out of war.'

"Now when a President of the United States makes that statement, no man with mere idle talk can stand up and say he has made a secret agreement to put us into war.

"It should be the same as—I hate to say it—but it's like calling the President a liar.

"I don't believe any President would do that. I don't care who the man is.

"I don't believe Mr. Willkie can succeed in deceiving any large percentage of the American people. But I do think he may receive some people, representing foreign governments—people who, if they believe we are as helpless as he says we are, might be induced to do something or other that would cause trouble.

"And I believe Mr. Willkie may cause people down in the republics of South America to believe that, if we are as helpless as he says we are, there is no use in relying on us.

"The whole policy of the Willkie campaign is to frighten the American people. I don't believe the American people, however, are going to say that Mr. Knudson are inStettinius, and Mr. Nelson are incompetent. These men say that they are getting first rate cooperation from the White House, from Congress, and from industry. There is nothing to show that those gentlemen would work any better if Mr. Willkie were President than if Mr. Roosevelt were President. They are doing all they can do.

"I of course agree with the President's foreign policy absolutely. As a result of his foreign policy, while the rest of the world is at war, we are at peace, and, if his policy of preparedness is supported, we'll stay at peace."

Babson Claims Prosperity Is Best Defense

Says U. S. Economy Must be Prepared For Any Eventuality

BY ROGER BABSON

Babson Park, Mass.—I have said in recent articles that business is getting better. As long as the defense program continues to broaden there will be no lessening of activity. Year-end reports will show more plus than minus signs. Manufacturers and other business men are throwing away the red ink bottles and stocking up on black. It takes time for war production to get under way. The country is still in the inertia stage. Once the initial problems of planning, financing, and production are overcome, things should move fast

Babson

With machine tool companies working day and night to provide the necessary equipment, there is a scarcity of skilled labor. Men must be trained for many important and technically-skilled jobs. Blueprints must be drawn, sources of supplies arranged, transportation schedules by rail and highway checked. Lawyers must study contracts, prices be determined, and bank loans negotiated. Our industrial areas are coming to a state of intense activity.

The great agricultural sections of the country have not yet felt the increased tempo of our industrial cities. However, as movement of the business cycle swings from east to west, all sections of our land will ultimately be caught up in this rush to arm Young and old, rich and poor, will all take more of a part in whatever the future holds.

Business Will Improve

War prosperity for some few few people is a delightful state to contemplate. Unfortunately, such people do not come into contact with the actualities of war. These are far more cruel than those of the last conflict My business associates know that I never side-step a scrap. I thrive on trouble. Give me some new upset to face each day and I am a happy man. I am no pacifist in business, religion, or war; and I am all set for any actual participation in the current fight abroad. But I also know that when our enemies suffer we also suffer in the end.

Dividends may increase, but total incomes of business men and investors will be drastically reduced by taxes. Even war talk and a feeling that the right side is winning brings increased activity in the stock market The demand for labor will put more money into the pockets of the man on Main Street and into the tills of stores. Only unbiased historians years hence will be able to judge whether or not wars ever provide lasting economic values. Surely, real prosperity can come from our present situation only as it strengthens our character and teaches us needed lessons.

Let's Remember 1929

Unfortunately, we have not yet recovered from the effects of the last war. Furthermore, fundamentally, we profited little from it, either financially or spiritually. We had a slump in business after the armistice, followed by several years of rising values. Then came the swift kick in the pants so many of us remember. Now, we are on the eve of another great outbreak. God grant that it will not come before we are prepared.

Our country is like a sick child who before recovering from an ear abscess breaks out with chicken pox. We are not yet out of the depression starting in 1929. Temporarily, the economic situation will ease up, bringing us to a false sense of security and prosperity. Geographically our country is so large, and our numbers and resources so great, that many have the impression we cannot be licked. However, in Hitler's eyes we are already tottering from internal labor troubles and congressional fights. And the thought may not be far fetched.

Prosperity Best Defense

Germany now has the great bulk of the resources of the Continent, let alone the Scandinavian countries. With this backing, anything can happen to us economically. One saving grace is that in all history no man has yet conquered the world. If I have learned anything in the last 40 years, it concerns man's frailty. Some day a leader will rise in some other country who will be Hitler's match. Until then, we must keep prepared economically as well as militarily for whichever way the tide turns

I may sound like an alarmist. If so, forgive me. I am anxious only that we Americans are not caught sleeping, economically, at the switch. I am hopeful, too, that all will realize the price our young people must some day pay for the present expenditures and brief respite from unemployment. Hitler has no idea of invading the United States as long as our people are prosperous. He, however, believes, that through labor and political dissensions, unemployment will be so great and our people so divided that we will turn to Fascism as a remedy.

As my grandchildren constantly remind me, times have changed. Our conception of money and wealth will change. It no longer takes money, as we know it, to finance Germany. If it were of any real value, the gold which we have buried at Fort Knox would guarantee our own and England's salvation. No, money is today of little real value We must have tangible resources, the courage to sacrifice, and the character to keep our heads.

Teachers Opposing School District Plan

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Legislation abolishing the present school district plan of rural school administration in favor of the county unit plan will be proposed at the convention of the Wisconsin Education association in Milwaukee on Nov. 7, it was announced here today.

The proposal has already been approved by the association's resolutions committee, which will present it to the delegates.

The same committee has also drafted a demand for legislative subsidy of the county citizenship day programs required to be conducted by county superintendents. The teachers' group complained that adequate citizenship instruction in many localities is rendered impossible by reduced county superintendent's budgets.

Pegler Scores California Decision in Picketing Case

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—It would be hard to imagine a decision more hostile of the rights of individual Americans than one which was recently announced by the supreme court of California upholding the right of a labor union to picket an employer, to compel him to compel his employes to join the union The vote was four to three in an action filed by 32 salesmen of an automobile company.

Pegler

The salesmen represented that if the picketing were allowed to continue the employer would be forced to fire them. The majority opinion held that the salesmen had no right to adopt a bargaining agent of their own choice but must submit to the picketing union or sacrifice their jobs. This court is packed with ideological comrades of Gov. Olson, the lower-case Roosevelt of the west coast.

The court did not discuss the possibility that the union, being a private organization and subject to no regulation by any public authority, might be governed by racketeers, dictatorial leaders or foreign enemies of the American nation. No weight was given to the right of the individual to refrain from joining any private organization.

The decision holds that a union may picket and boycott to compel the employer to drive his men into its ranks, even though resistance to the boycott would be disastrous to the industry involved. The court went further in saying that the victims were not actually deprived of their jobs or the right to work by this process. The damage to them is "no more than presentation of a choice between leaving their present employer, either voluntarily or upon its demand, or joining the union"

The salesmen are not deprived of their jobs, but are merely given a choice between leaving those jobs or joining a private and irresponsible organization on any terms that the organization may prescribe. The right of the citizen to earn a living for himself and his family is subordinate to the political power of any racketeer holding a charter from the American Federation of Labor or any muscovite conspirator in the communistic family of the California C.I.O. The sentence which I have quoted is the most cynical lie that I have read in many an hour's study of the mounting pile of brutal dishonesty produced by political judges and bureaucrats since the New Deal and its state subsidiaries began the drive to create a vast sub-government over all the workers in the country, with the power to tax at will and to inflict the economic death penalty on free men.

By this decision the employer is given his choice between economic ruin—which, of course, he will not accept—and coercing his employes in their selection of a bargaining agent. The California supreme court, by a leering evasion, holds that this is not compulsion on either the employer or the unwilling employes. The employer may accept ruin, go out of business and dismiss his employes for lack of work, and the rights of all are preserved. Or, out of respect for the rights of the racket of the communist party, he may submit to the union's demands and give the workers their choice between discharge and union membership.

Union Isn't Required To Admit Them Then

In fact, although the court does not deal with this phase, the union is not even required to admit the employees to membership. It may bar them perpetually for anti-union activity in crossing its picket lines.

It may defer their admission for a period of months or years as punishment for violating the rules of an organization of which they were not members. Or it may rimply reject them because its rolls are full and, even if they be admitted to membership, they may still be deprived of their jobs and placed at the bottom of the hiring list, while union members who have paid bribes to the officials receive the work. This decision hastens the showdown between the rights of the American citizens and the coercive political power of irresponsible, predatory and often criminal or disloyal organizations.

If sustained by the United States supreme court it will abolish not only the right of individuals and minorities to make their own bargains but their rights to the profits of their own labor in favor of private organizations having no responsibility to any branch of the federal or state government. If that comes the next step must be government control of unions, with the power to forbid strikes and fix wages and hours arbitrarily, accompanied by the power to enforce the government's terms on all employers.

That is the method of Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini.

Portrait Of A Healthy All-American

He's got quick and ready energy for those 90 yard touchdown scampers . . .

Look at that boy go — he certainly "burns up" territory! Strange, too, when you stop to think that only a season or so back Junior was underweight, dull and listless. He'd tire easily . . . wander about the house . . . and if a boy lacked energy — it was Junior! Then one day his mother, upon recommendation, served Schaefer's Milk. She discovered that the boy liked its flavor immensely. He drank more. It seemed to pick up his appetite.

Vikings Pointed for Upset Win Over Coe

THIS WEEK'S GAMES
Coe at Lawrence.
Beloit at Knox.
Ripon at Carleton.
Cornell at Grinnell.
Carthage at Monmouth.

Lawrence college football team will make its final appearance of 1940 at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Whiting field when it takes the grid against Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Ia. It will be the feature attraction of Lawrence's annual homecoming celebration and a Midwest conference game.

Buoyed by its showing against Monmouth college last week, Lawrence will be 'high' for tomorrow's exhibition. It will be the second step toward a successful final half the season, the remaining steps being at Ripon, Nov. 2, and at Beloit, Nov. 9

Much of Lawrence's chance for victory tomorrow is based on the enthusiasm the squad has shown with the advent of an offense sparked by Dusty Rhodes, diminutive back. He made his first full-game appearance last week after being injured at Grinnell, and his running, passing, kicking and general attitude changed the squad into an aggressive, confident outfit.

So tomorrow, Dusty will be in there calling the plays again, looking for an oportunity to tear loose, always giving the Vikings a threat. And if he can direct the team to a win will be a campus hero.

Several Positions a Question

Aside from Rhodes and several other men, the starting Lawrence lineup is a question. The fullback berth is a tossup between Art Kaemmer and Loren Smith, the latter a 'find' of recent weeks. He is bigger than Kaemmer but the latter has the edge in experience. Bob Romano undoubtedly will be the blocker and Frank Nencki, playing much improved ball defensively, will be at right half.

Bob MacIntosh, also playing sensational ball this season, is certain to start at center and Dave Spaulding, one of the hardest workers on the squad will be at left guard. The right guard will be Leroy Lubenow who can be a powerful lot of help if he is in the right mood. Perry Powell, the other guard possibility, suffered a slight concussion during the week and may not get into the game.

Vince Jones, still to put up an exhibition like that which rated him all-conference in 1938, will start at left tackle with the right tackle a tossup between Herb Kirchoff and Chap Plumer, the latter a big fellow who is just getting the hang of things. That leaves the ends with George Stuart one selection and Jarv Lingle or Gerald Grady the other choice.

Undefeated Until Last Week

Coe was undefeated until it ran into Cornell last Saturday afternoon, which is another way of saying the Kohawks have something. They also lost a good tackle last week and it may hurt their chances although it is admitted the most damage to them can come from a hard-charging aggressive line that keeps the Kohawk passers smothered

Lawrence has something to remember as far as the invaders are concerned: They gave the Vikings a shellacking last fall down at Cedar Rapids and several of the senior members of the Lawrence team shouldn't have forgotten it.

RESERVED SEATS

Reserved seats for the Lawrence-Coe homecoming game tomorrow at Whiting field may be secured at the Pond Sport Shop or the Rogers Book Store. The latter is on East College avenue and formerly was the Johnston Book store. The seats are in a reserved section of the bleachers.

Several Unbeaten Teams Will Stumble in This Week's Games

BY SID FEDER

New York —(AP)— The pleasant prospect for this week's football festivities is that the list of unbeaten teams runs a very good chance of shrinking like your "guaranteed all-wool" ten dollar suit.

At the moment, there are only about two dozen or so outfits from coast to coast which can conceivably be placed in the "major" class and which have so far kept out of the losing column.

But unless there's an epidemic of tie ball games on this week end program, two of these must be wiped out in the Penn-Michigan and Stanford-Southern California tussles and ten or eleven more are going to have anything but a clambake to stay in the select set.

Naturally, the mid-western invasion of Pennsylvania's Quakers to tangle with Michigan is the hot-spot of the afternoon. As for the Pacific coast headliner, Stanford has renewed Clark Shaughnessy's faith in the game by giving him a clean slate up to now. Southern California's defending coast champions, started slowly with two ties but seem to be rolling now.

But those are the meetings between clubs showing no loss on either side. Elsewhere, from coast to coast, you have unbeaten outfits tangling with previously whipped elevens who can very well snap winning strings wherever they are.

Can't Lose Prestige

For instance, there's Ohio State's Buckeyes, beaten twice and with nothing more to lose in the way of prestige. They'll be going all out at Cornell, and the mighty Big Red is in for a busy afternoon, at best.

And what about Rutgers, the only unbeaten, untied, unscored on team in the select set? All the boys who die for dear old Rutgers have to do Saturday is meet up with the Princeton Tiger.

Then there's Detroit's Titans, who toss their record of four straight victories on the line against Villanova, and Texas' Longhorns, who figure to run into anything but a tea party with Rice, and LaFayette, who goes against Army, and Georgetown's Hoyas, with a two-year undefeated reign, who tangle with New York University, and Penn State's Nittany Lions who meet an up-and-coming Temple team, and Mississippi, which can't hope for a breeze with Arkansas, or Texas Aggies with Baylor or Columbia with Syracuse.

Of course, the all-victorious records of Tennessee, Franklin and Marshall, Navy, Notre Dame, Boston college, Northwestern, Fordham and Minnesota aren't supposed to be in too much danger against Florida, Gettysburg, Yale's moaning Elis, Illinois, little St. Anselm, Indiana, St. Mary's of California or Iowa, respectively, but there's always the chance of a surprise In fact, the only sure-thing unbeaten team for the week is Clemson, because the Tigers took care of that by knocking off South Carolina 21-13 yesterday.

Packers Have 'New Spirit'

Troubles of Last Week Ironed Out; Expect to Come Back

Green Bay — Humbled by the Detroit Lions, the Green Bay Packers have taken stock of themselves and are drilling with a new spirit for their game against the Pittsburgh Steelers at State Fair park, Milwaukee, Sunday afternoon.

It will be the final game of the season on Wisconsin soil for the Packers. They must shake off the dust of last Sunday's upset and fight with the valor of champions if they are to stay in the National Football league race.

Defense Edge to Steelers

The Packers, with five games behind them, have scored 113 points, while the Steelers have marked up only 40 in seven games A defensive edge is held by the Steelers, however, since 107 points have been scored against them in seven games, compared to 104 points against the Packers in five starts.

Detroit whipped the Packers by 23 to 14, while the Steelers defeated the Lions, 10 to 7. The Packers beat the Chicago Cardinals, 31 to 6, while the Steelers tied them, 7 to 7. Green Bay lost to the Chicag Bears, 41 to 10, and defeated Philadelphia, 27 to 20, and Cleveland, 31 to 14.

Pittsburgh tied the New York Giants, 10 to 10. The team lost to Brooklyn, 10 to 3; Washington, 40 to 10; Brooklyn, 21 to 0, and New York, 12 to 0.

Still Have Chance

Packer chances for their sixth National Football league championship dimmed to a slight glow after last Sunday's meeting with Detroit. However, anything can happen in a football race, and the Packers are noted for working best when the going is toughest.

Coach E. L. Lambeau knows the Steelers will be tough and the "heat" has been on all week. The Packer pilot is determined to take Pittsburgh into camp and then turn his attention on the game with the Bears which will be played in Chicago, Sunday, Nov. 3, at Wrigley field.

Marquette Ready for Texas Tech; Ripon Opposes Carleton

By The Associated Press

Still seeking their first Western conference victory, University of Wisconsin gridders tangle with Purdue at LaFayette, Ind., tomorrow, while Marquette's Hilltoppers entertain the razzle-dazzle footballers from Texas Tech at Milwaukee.

Beaten decisively by Iowa and Northwestern, the Badgers will enter the Purdue stadium as decided underdogs. Purdue lost its only Big Ten start to Ohio State by a three-point margin.

The Hilltoppers figure on a tough afternoon, made toughter by the Red Raiders' determination to wipe out last year's 22-19 defeat at the hands of Marquette on Texas soil.

Marquette gridmen had a long session of defense drill yesterday.

Coach Paddy Driscoll plans to use Huck Vosberg behind the line of scrimmage on pass defense. After the defense workout, the Hilltoppers worked on covering and returning punts and closed the day with a brief signal drill.

A full Midwest conference bill finds Beloit at Knox college, Ripon at Carleton college, and Coe at Lawrence.

Beloit, which battled Ripon to a scoreless tie last Saturday, must defeat Knox to stay in the conference race. With Captain Sveto Krcmar in the starting lineup for the first time since the season opener, the Ripon redmen are expected to give Carleton a real fight.

La Crosse and Whitewater Teachers, each with two victories and no defeats in teachers conference play, go up against each other at Whitewater. Central State Teachers of Stevens Point, tied with Whitewater for the southern division lead, plays St. Cloud (Minn.) in a non-conference tilt.

Oshkosh and Platteville, both beaten twice, get together at Oshkosh in a southern division clash, while River Falls and Eau Claire, Northern division teams, meet at River Falls.

St. Norbert will try to chalk up its fourth victory of the year as the Knights meet Milwaukee Teachers at Milwaukee Saturday.

Ailing Badgers Expect to Play

The Badgers will practice on the Butler University field at Indianapolis today. The trip will be resumed tomorrow morning.

Although the veterans, George Paskvan, senior fullback, and Al Lorenz, senior end, were still ailing, they were considerably improved and should be ready to go tomorrow. Two sophomores, Jim McFadzean, right half, and Lloyd Wasserbach, tackle, are expected to be in the starting lineup.

Those taken on the trip were:

Ends—Cliff Philip, Gene Lyons, Bob Baumann, Al Lorenz, Dave Schreiner, Ray Kreick, and Robert Stupka

Tackles—Dick Thornally, Paul Hirshrunner, Harry Cagney, Lloyd Wasserbach, Elmer Tornow, and Harry Harter.

Centers — Robert Henry, Fred Ladewig, and Robert McKay.

Quarterbacks — Tom Farris, John Tennant, Don Peterson, Paul Bronson.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES
Appleton at Fond du Lac.
Manitowoc at West.
Sheboygan North at Oshkosh.

Goaded by a desire to move up another notch in the Fox River Valley conference standings, Appleton High school football team invades Fond du Lac this evening pointed for a win over the hard-driving Cardinals.

Fond du Lac was in the running for first honors until last Friday night when it suffered a setback at the hands of East. The defeat was a bitter one for the lads from down the lake and they are being aroused to rattle all over Appleton and other opponents in the hope that Green Bay West, which Fondy handed a trimming, can nose out East in their famous battle Nov. 11 or thereabouts.

Fondy used a hard-driving ground attack to score on the Red Devils. However, East didn't lose poise at being behind and came back via passes to score but missed the point. Still being in arrears, they rattled up another touchdown to take the lead.

In drills this week, the Cardinals have been working against Appleton aerials and end runs which their scouts observed a couple weeks ago proved most successful against Manitowoc.

May Alter Backfield

Appleton, in the meantime, has been putting a lot of attention on its defensive line play in anticipation of a bruising battle. There also has been work with the reserves for they are expected to get into action as the starters are withdrawn at various periods to rest.

The only probable changes in the Appleton lineup are in the backfield where Nickasch's condition makes him a question. He pulled a leg muscle and has been finding it a handicap although he insists he'll be ready. If he doesn't show at right half, the assignment will go to Buesing and Horn will work at fullback. Delong will be the No 1 blocker and Kliefoth will run at left half and direct play.

In the line, Cooper and Burton are fixtures at the ends. Murphy and Pekarske are the probable starting tackles with Wettengel and Cain at guards and Curry at center.

The other conference games will have Manitowoc at West Green Bay and Sheboygan North at Oshkosh. In the former game, Manitowoc will be battling to upset West and move into a position where it can claim second honors. West, of course, will be pointed to win and remain at the heels of East until their big game.

Oshkosh should find North a good workout but nothing more, especially after the way the Indians clicked against Central last week.

Loses Fifth Game

Ashland —(AP)— Northland college lost its fifth straight football contest of the season last night when Itasca (Minn.) junior college overwhelmed the Ashland team 27 to 7.

Three of Itasca's four touchdowns came on passes. Northland's only marker was scored in the final minutes of the game.

OPPOSE FOND DU LAC TONIGHT—When Appleton High school gridders take the field tonight at Fond du Lac in a Valley conference game that means a shot at second honors to the Terrors, these two boys probably will be in the lineup. At the left is big John Murphy, playing a great game at tackle on the strong side. The other lad is Norman Nickasch, right half and one of the punters Nickasch was injured two weeks ago and still was on the ailing list this week but indicated he felt he'd be ready for action. THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Saturday — Neenah at Shawano.
Kaukauna at New London.

Kaukauna — At 2:20 tomorrow afternoon the Kaukauna High school eleven will attempt to spoil another homecoming, this time intruding upon New London's annual festivities. Previously the Kaws scored homecoming victories over Neenah and Clintonville.

In practices this week Coach Paul E. Little's squad has been showing an earnest spirit to indicate that the conference champions are not taking the Bulldogs lightly Every conference team but New London has been beaten so far, with a victory Saturday meaning a third straight league title for the Kaws.

Little's starting lineup will have Bill Alger and Leo Rohan at end, Ray Hurst and Calvin Spice at tackle, Jim Helf and Dean Lemke at guard, John Velte at center and Karl Giordana, Willis Ranquette, Bob Danner and Joe Regenfuss in the backfield.

If the Kaws can accumulate a comfortable margin the large group of fans who plan to accompany the team will get a preview of next year's backfield. Danner and Ranquette return, with Spice shifting to a halfback post and Roland Hansen, a guard, taking over Joe Regenfuss' blocking back spot.

The Kaws have been concentrating on stopping Harold Pues, New London's all-around athlete who gave a lot of trouble here last year. Pues warmed up for tomorrow's game with an 81-yard run for a touchdown last week against West DePere.

Daily Maroon Sees Six Man Football In Big Universities

Chicago—(AP)—The Daily Maroon, student newspaper of the University of Chicago, predicted yesterday in an editorial that "in a very few years many of the eastern schools will be forced to consider seriously the abolition of football."

The editorial said that Chicago, which abandoned intercollegiate football last December and now sponsors the six-man intramural sport, can again pioneer in the field of education by inaugurating a program of intercollegiate six-man football.

"Such universities as Harvard, Yale and Princeton although their student newspapers and their administrators as yet lack the courage to admit it, are in the same precarious position that Chicago was in a few years ago," the editorial said.

"Because they cannot turn out good football teams the alumni are becoming hostile. Unless they want the complete sort of flagrant subsidization practiced by some southern universities, they will continue to turn out at best mediocre teams. . . . If programs of intercollegiate six-man football have been put into effect successfully, it is likely that the solution of their problem will be clear."

Beloit Frosh Cop

Waukesha—(AP)—The Beloit freshman football team defeated the Carroll college yearlings 14 to 0 here yesterday. Hannefin scored both touchdowns on runs of 26 and 5 yards. Carver dropkicked both extra points.

Marion—Marion Pigeons went into second place of the Tri-County football conference when they won a pair of games during the last week. They downed Manawa, 14 to 0, Friday, and took the measure of Omro, 16 to 0, Tuesday.

The pass combination of Draeger to Willing scored one touchdown in each game while Meyer tallied in the Manawa game and Buss blocked a punt and scored a touchdown and a safety in the Omro encounter. Good blocking on the part of Adams and outstanding pass defense on the part of Wiesman were features of the game.

This week Omro journeys to Pulaski, Waupaca will be at Kimberly and Manawa is going to Mosinee for a non-conference battle. Marion will entertain the Clintonville Truckers in another non-conference struggle.

Jimmy Coyne Is Defeated in Amateur Finale

Bows to Glen Potter, Illinois Importation; Hintz Gets K.O. Win

BY GORDON McINTYRE

Glenn Potter, a Chicago and Bloomington, Ill., amateur boxer with a reputation far beyond what he showed, defeated Jimmy Coyne, Fond du Lac, and Joey O'Amico, Milwaukee, defeated Marty Pientkewic, Vulcan, Mich., in the windups of Oney Johnston post's fight card at Armory D last night. The latter bout went into the books as a technical K. O. when Referee Dauber Jaeger stopped the go in the fourth at the Michigan boy's request.

There were more than a few persons who thought Potter shouldn't have had the nod among them one of the judges Neither fighter showed much until the third when Potter landed an uppercut For the remainder of the bout Coyne was the aggressor with solid blows about even The only real action of the fracas came in the opening minute of the last heat when the boys stood toe to toe and pumped leather to the body. Potter gave way first.

For a boxer with Potter's reputation he showed little. Coyne, a southpaw, was a troublesome individual and Potter seldom did the usual thing for a fighter in his situation—lead with his right When the go ended someone in Potter's corner cracked that it wasn't bad for a guy who hadn't been in a gym since April

Fight Is Stopped

Joey D'Amico and Pientkewic took two rounds to get warmed up and then Joey started landing punches He got in two hard blows in the third and in the fourth caught the Michigan boxer with a hard left to the jaw. Later Joey cuffed him coming out of a clinch and Pientkewic walked away and indicated he was through Referee Jaeger stepped in and when Pientkewic revealed he didn't want to continue Jaeger stopped the bout

Al McPherson, Keshena, furnished the usual amount of comedy as he decisioned Harry Tessdorf, West Allis McPherson was "the little man who wasn't there" as far as Tessdorf was concerned He would dart in and jab and dart away. Sometimes he stayed around long enough to throw a half dozen punches and then he'd be gone while Tessdorf was pawing at the air. A puncher would have stopped Tessdorf early but McPherson can't punch In the third frame the Indian lad had all kinds of fun inviting Tessdorf to hit him

George Steffen, Green Bay, beat Jerry Gutman Fond du Lac, in a rather uninteresting bout. Steffen is another year older and a lot slower but he still was good enough to beat Gutman in almost every round despite the many openings Gutman had when Steffen would get careless

Hintz Gets K. O

Buddy Hintz, Clintonville scored the only legitimate K O in 2 minutes and 20 seconds in the third frame The victim was Dick Haferkorn, Vulcan Mich., who might have been a good weight lifter or a protege of Charles Atlas because of his muscular development As a fighter, however, he was as muscle bound as a post Haferkorn never landed a blow and the first round was a bust Hintz scored his knockout with a left to the pit of the stomach.

Dick Piette, Appleton, had too long a reach and too good a left jab for Romey Lawrence Manitowoc. There were few blows in the first round but thereafter Piette kept Lawrence a mile away with left jabs The shorter armed Lawrence seldom got close enough to land

In the curtain raiser Mack Hawpatoss, Neopit, won an unfavorable decision from Max Seggelink, Appleton. The wild swinging Indian downed Seggelink in the first but the Appleton youth evened matters early in the second round Seggelink appeared to have something when he decided to use it but much of the time he was trying to evade round house rights and lefts by the Indian. It appeared Seggelink had won by outlasting the Indian but one judge and the referee thought differently.

Organize Cage Loop At Kimberly Tonight

Kimberly — Martin Weber, state organizer of home talent basketball tournaments and leagues will be in the village Friday evening to meet with Fox valley team managers interested in organizing a home talent league. He also will show an insurance plan which he has in other leagues to care for injured players.

Three more team managers have sent word to George Mc Elroy that they have teams ready for the league. They bring the total to 14 teams interested and are DePere, Sturgeon Bay and a Kimberly Clark team of Neenah. Other teams are Bonduel Clintonville New London, Neenah Courtney Plumbers, Menasha Valley Brews, Appleton Paper Institute, Kimberly A A Little Chute A A Hilbert, Bullhon and Green Bay Gorden Bents.

Neenah to Play Indians for 2nd Place in League

Shawano Picked Over Red Rockets in NEW Loop Contest

Neenah — Neenah High school's football squad will be battling the Shawano Indians for second place in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference when the two outfits meet at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Shawano.

The two elevens are deadlocked for the No. 2 position behind the championship Kaukauna team, which has just about copped its third straight title.

The Indians will be favored to knock down Neenah, but the Rockets will be a tough team to bowl over. They have pulled one upset this season when they trounced Menasha St. Mary, 30 to 13.

The Neenah gridmen know fundamentals, for Coach George Christoph has drilled that into them, but they found out last Saturday they could muster pep and spirit, so the Rockets are going to be a tougher team to beat. Both squads have won two conference games against one defeat, Neenah defeating Clintonville and New London and losing to Kaukaua and Shawano defeating Menasha and West DePere and losing to the Ghosts.

Neenah will get a break if the rumor that Bill Reed, Shawano's star backfield leather lugger, won't be in the line-up is authentic, but then Coach Clif Dilts has an Indian Boy named James who has been performing well as Reed's understudy.

Ten Yankees Sue Newspaper, Scribe

New York — (AP)— Libel suits seeking a total of $3,500,000 have been filed by 10 New York Yankee baseball players and Lou Gehrig, former Yankee against Jimmy Powers, sports editor of the New York Daily News, and the News Syndicate, Inc

Samuel L. Sargent attorney for the players, said the suits are based upon an article and a cartoon which appeared in the Sunday News Aug 18 The suits charge that Powers made libelous statements in the article "in an attempt to explain the reason for a slump in the team's playing"

The news later published a full page article under this banner headline: "The News Apologizes to Lou Gehrig and the Yankees"

One suit, for $2,500,000, has been brought by Yankee pitchers Lefty Gomez, John Murphy, Monte Pearson, Atley Donald, Oral Hildebrand, Charles Ruffing and Steve Sundra second baseman Joe Gordon catcher Bill Dickey and third baseman Red Rolfe

The other suit, for $1,000,000, has been brought by Gehrig, who retired from the Yankees in June, 1939, when his ailment was described by the Mayo Brothers clinic at Rochester, Minn., as "amyotrophic lateral sclerosis a form of chronic poliomyelitis," (infantile paralysis).

Gehrig established the greatest endurance record in the history of baseball—2,130 consecutive games, played from 1925 on.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

Preliminaries, excuses and such like are barred this week. It's an old American custom so we'll wade into the list and let the second guessers wait until Saturday night.

Appleton-Fond du Lac: Fondy is reported to have the strongest rushing attack in the conference. It must be admitted the Terrors have done right well against rushing but there still seems to be no reason to pick anyone except Fond du Lac.

Lawrence-Coe: There are too many "ifs" about the Vikings. It's possible but not probable so we'll pick Coe.

Sheboygan North-Oshkosh: The Indians will take their second game over a Sheboygan team.

Manitowoc-Green Bay West: Looks like a dog fight with the Ships battling to get into a second place tie. Wherezat coin? It says—West.

Kaukauna-New London: It will be a major upset if Kaukauna doesn't win.

Menasha-West DePere: Last reports from Menasha indicated the team had an injury list that looked like a train wreck. Maybe that's right. But we'll stick with the Jays.

Neenah-Shawano: With Billy Reed out Shawano may not be the same. But until that condition is proved, we'll say Shawano.

Kimberly-Waupaca: Kimberly should win if the long layoff hasn't made the boys soft and listless.

Clintonville-Marion: The Truckers will take a lot of things out on Marion.

St. Mary's-Edgewood: The Madison team probably will be too tough.

St. Norbert-Milwaukee Teachers: The Peds beat Carroll and so did the Saints. The Saints had a bigger edge and their win came later in the season St. Norbert.

Beloit-Knox: Beloit passes will be too potent.

St. John-Lourdes: Lourdes just recently revived football. We'll take St. John.

Packers-Pittsburgh: The Packers are reported to have patched up their differences and perhaps Isbell won't be ailing with the grippe this week. We're picking the Packers.

Michigan-Penn: It ought to be Harmon versus Reagan but possibly a guy named Doakes will steal the play. Both teams unbeaten, untied; both powerful offensive machines; both vulnerable to passes. Michigan seems to have waded through much the tougher opposition, and gets the nod on that basis.

Cornell-Ohio State: Ohio State beaten in two close ones, has to win this one to salvage something out of the season. Nor have the Buckeyes forgotten how the Cornells poured it on in the second half of last year's battle. The incentive, therefore, is there but that isn't enough. Not, at any rate, in this corner's opinion, and the ballot is cast for Cornell.

Illinois-Notre Dame: How are you going to pick against the Irish? Notre Dame.

Stanford - Southern California: This is strictly a you-pick-'em affair. Resorting to the coin . . . Stanford.

Texas Aggies - Baylor: Injuries have hurt the Bears, but even if they hadn't this vote still would go to Texas A. and M.

North Carolina-Tulane: This one ought to be close now that Tulane has found itself. On a stab in the dark . . . Tulane.

Nebraska-Missouri: The probable payoff game in the Big Six. Paul Christman's still around, but the choice is Nebraska.

Ripon-Carleton: Ripon will have a passing attack with Kremar ready to start; Carleton has a great runner in Dick Rader. So what? Purely a guess Carleton.

Fordham-St. Mary's: The Gaels haven't got Slip Madigan any more and its open to doubt that they have a first-class team this year either. At any rate Fordham.

Harvard-Dartmouth: Out of the hat, Harvard.

New York University - Georgetown: Georgetown.

Michigan State - Santa Clara: Ecnie-meenie . . . Michigan State.

Louisiana State-Vanderbilt: L S U

Arkansas-Mississippi: Ditto, Mississippi

William and Mary-Virginia: Virginia.

Iowa State - Oklahoma: Taking Oklahoma.

U. C. L. A.-Oregon State: U. C. L. A.

Washington State-Oregon: Taking State.

Also: Duquesne over Manhattan; Holy Cross over Brown; Texas Tech over Marquette; Virginia Military over Richmond; Texas Christian over Tulsa; Detroit over Villanova

St. Mary's Grid Team Ends Home Season Tonight

Unbeaten Edgewood Opposes Zephyrs at Butte des Morts Field

Menasha—St. Mary's High school gridders will close their home 1940 season tonight when they oppose the Edgewood academy team from Madison at Butte des Morts field. The game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock. The St. Mary's High school band will play and maneuver between halves.

Coaches Fred Trish and Joseph Kores have been making shifts in the Zephyr squad following the 30 to 13 defeat at Neenah last week. Injuries have handicapped the Zephyr squad this week also. Sylvester Burghardt, who was shifted from guard to fullback, suffered a leg injury. Farnham Johnson has gone to the fullback post via left end and right half.

Albert Kobinsky is at end. Emmet Hoks, regular fullback, also is on the injured list as is the quarterback, Don Hoks Alfred Taves, former right half, has been used at the quarterback post. Leo Miller, left end has an injured leg

The Zephyrs will go up against a powerful team tonight, unbeaten in the last two years This year Edgewood has included a 34 to 6 victory over St. John's of Little Chute, a 19 to 0 decision over Campion of Prairie du Chien, and a one-sided victory over Wisconsin High at Madison in its record

The team is big and experienced as only one man was lost from the 1939 squad which defeated the Zephyrs at Madison 7 to 6

Outstanding Games Carded For Tomorrow

Michigan and Penn At Ann Arbor; Ohio State Goes East

BY ARNOLD DERLITZKI

Chicago—(AP)—"Appeasement" had yet to reach its international significance when Western conference schedule makers completed Saturday's football program, but the games they selected should appease the most demanding fan

Among three standout intersectional games on tap is the classic at Ann Arbor between Michigan and Pennsylvania. Both clubs are unbeaten, each boasts of diversified attacks and the spectacular in individuals—Tom Harmon for Michigan and Frank Reagan for Penn. Even history has joined to provide a proper setting. In 18 meetings between the two, each school has won eight games and tied two.

Another "best seller" (a capacity crowd of 33,500 is expected) is the Ohio State at Cornell affair—a likely aerial circus and full of razzle dazzle at which both elevens are proficient.

Notre Dame at Illinois, a third non conference contest, smacks of David and Goliath and appeals to the fan looking for possible upsets.

For a study in contrast, there is the conference game between pass throwing Iowa and line crushing Minnesota, which hasn't resorted to an aerial in its last seven quarters of football play.

And to mull over, we might throw in the remark of Coach Bernie Bierman, whose Gophers lost to Iowa last year, 13-9, but who would rather play the 1939 team than this year's. He says "Eddie Anderson has a team better than last year's."

At Evanston, Northwestern which has thrown only 16 passes in three games, opposes Indiana and "Hurlin' Hal" Hursh, who alone has thrown 47. As in Minnesota's case, the title element also is involved, and the Wildcats, bidding for their third straight league triumph, wonder how long their first string line can hold up. The regulars have played most of every game, only four reserves being subbed with any consistency.

Even something of a "forget-me-not" is offered in the Wisconsin-Purdue clash at LaFayette. Shunted to the background by the calibre of the other games, the two teams find their individual hopes dimmed by injuries. However, there is one compensating factor—the probable use of many sophomores, which automatically supplies an "anything can happen" angle to the game.

Carnegie Tech Will Meet Class B Teams Starting Next Year

Pittsburgh.—(AP)—Carnegie Tech, a leader in the movement of some colleges to de-emphasize football, considers its proper place now is in Class B competition

"We're dropping down to Class B and we'll probably have a lot of fun at that," said Clarence (Buddy) Overend, graduate manager of athletics.

"Our schedules in 1941-43 include Grove City, Westminster, Geneva, Lehigh and similar teams. We are trying to cut the schedule down to schools where we might win a football game."

Overend, with last week's 61-0 beating by Notre Dame in mind, added "we are just dropping out of the big time."

Major League Also Rans Get Cut in Series Melon

Chicago—(AP)— Shares of world series money for the Cleveland Indians and Brooklyn Dodgers, second place finishers in the American and National league races, respectively, were announced yesterday by Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball.

The Indians split $30,331.05, with 31 members of the club receiving full shares of $919.13. Six others received partial shares ranging from $495.56 to $114.89 each.

The series winning Cincinnati Reds each received $5,803.62, with the Detroit Tigers each getting $3,531.81.

Post-Season Grid Games Unwelcome in Big Six

Kansas City—(AP)— The "unwelcome" mat has been placed outside the portals of the Big Six conference insofar as post-season football games are concerned, but the door was left slightly ajar.

Faculty representatives voted yesterday not to enter an agreement with any other conference to play bowl games. They reaffirmed the conference rule prohibiting such contests, but agreed any Big Six school may play a New Year's game with permission of the other members

The action was taken in connection with suggestions made by Southwest conference representatives that the gridiron champions of the two circuits play annually in the cotton bowl at Dallas.

Feeding Important In Care of Sheep

Outagamie county sheepmen are giving special attention to their flock management these days They are feeding especially well now before the breeding season begins because it is the vigorous, strong ewes which produce most twin lambs, according to County Agent J. F. Magnus.

For hay, all legumes such as alfalfa, clover, and soybeans are excellent. These hays, according to J. J. Lacey, extension animal husbandman of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, provide necessary vitamins, minerals and protein. If, however, these cannot be fed, then a hay lower in feeding value may be used, but, in that case, some concentrate which is high in protein should be fed with it. A small amount of oil meal or grain is usually advisable in the ration. If grain is fed with legume hay, most any of the home grown grains are satisfactory, Lacey says. Some sheepmen use bundle corn, others use whole oats, while still others use a mixture of corn, oats, and perhaps barley. About one-half pound of grain per head each day is sufficient.

Other important points which Lacey advocates in conection with good flock management, include keeping flocks free of parasites; dipping for control of external pests; good winter shelter; and sufficient exercise. The more simply a sheep barn is built, the more effective it usually is in the production of good lambs. Shelter and ordinary yard equipment, such as racks, and troughs should be kept low in cost, Lacey states.

Sleeping Sickness Among Horses Has Decreased This Year

Outbreaks of sleeping sickness of horses have been fewer this year than any year since 1936, according to a report received by County Agent J. F. Magnus from the department of agriculture. The disease, known scientifically as infectious equine encephalomyelitis, has so far affected only about 4,500 horses this year, most of which were in the mid-western states.

Last year there were about 8,000 cases; in the previous year about 184,000 cases were reported. In these years, 1938 and 1939, the disease was fairly widely distributed throughout the country.

Calves May be Fed Milk for First Year

Research shows it's definitely an advantage to feed calves skim milk until they're at least nine months old, according to a bulletin of the state department of agriculture received by County Agent J. F. Magnus. Calves on many dairy farms are fed skim milk until they are about six months old, and then the skim milk goes to waste. Calves may be fed skim milk until they are a year old, though some refuse to take milk after they are about six months old.

Phases of the program include potato breeding experiments, disease control, cooking quality and consumers' angle, grade and grading, soils and fertilizers, potato machinery, insects and insect control, new varieties and characteristics, transportation, crops and rotations.

Predict Continued Increase in Prices Of Dairy Products

The general rise in prices of dairy products and the unusually heavy production of milk for this season of the year have been the main developments in the dairy situation the last month, according to a department of agriculture bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus.

Economists in Washington predict that the rise in prices of dairy products will continue during the remainder of the year. During the winter of 1940-41 dairy product prices may average higher than in the winter of 1939-40. Improvement in demand is expected to more than offset the effect of increased production on prices. Exports of dairy products are also expected to be much larger.

Milk production on Oct. 1 was about 6 per cent larger than a year earlier, and a new high for that season of the year. Cow numbers have been increasing for about three years and production per cow was the highest on record for that date.

Pocketbook and Kitchen Training Best for Girls

BY DOROTHY DIX

A mother wants to know what is the ideal education for a girl of the common, or garden, variety. "My daughter," she says, "has neither the talents nor the desire to follow any professional career, but she is intelligent, without being brilliant, and she is sweet and pretty and the sort of a girl who will marry and rear a family and make a home—and I would like to know what she should be taught so that she can make a success of the life that she is destined to live." Well, the popular view of the education of girls is that if parents send their daughters off to college they have done their full duty by them, and can only hope and pray that some of the culture to which they have been exposed will take. Sometimes it does and sometimes it doesn't. But whether four years of sitting in the seats of learning leave a girl with a well-stored mind and a real thirst for knowledge, or just with a snootiness that makes her turn up her nose at her mother and father when she gets home, it still leaves her ignorant of most of the things she is really going to need to know.

Dorothy Dix

Of course, a girl should have a good formal education. Feminine ignorance is not considered charming in these days. It is regarded as boresome. And the Dumb Doras who never look at a book or read a paper and who think that the Axis has something to do with the mechanism of an automobile are as much socially quarantined as if they had the smallpox.

Nor can the girl who is going to make a lifework of just being a woman specialize on one branch of knowledge, as can the professional woman. She needs to be a jack of all trades and have a smattering of everything under the sun

What Girls Should Know

A girl who is properly prepared for domesticity needs to have been trained, first of all, to be a good purchasing agent, because most of the money that her husband earns will pass through her hands. On the wisdom and discretion with which she spends it will depend whether at middle life they are sitting pretty on easy street or are on the relief rolls.

Only a man who is a financial genius can make any headway against an extravagant and wasteful wife, for as it has been truly said, a woman can throw more out of the back door with a teaspoon than a man can put in at the front door with a shovel

She should be a good cook. Husbands and children are like all other animals, only amiable and contented when they are well fed. Nobody can picture a happy family gathering around a table that groans under overcooked meat and undercooked vegetables and soggy bread. More marriages are wrecked by a gas range than ever are by platinum blondes.

She will need to be a diplomat who can sidestep all of her husband's little peculiarities instead of bumping into them, who can jolly him into doing all of the things he swore he would never do, and who will know when to shut her eyes and be conveniently blind and when to open them wide and let him know that he isn't putting anything over on her.

Other Accomplishments

She will need to be a trained nurse who can give first aid to cuts and bumps and bruises when the children do their best to maim themselves, who can doctor minor ailments, and who can wear a sympathetic air and look anxious when her husband has a headache and thinks he is going to die

She should be a gracious hostess and know how to make people like to come to her house, because on the friendships thus established will depend much of her husband's and children's sucess in life

She should know how to write a nice letter because she will not only have to be her own secretary but her husband's in sending all the little notes of congratulation and sympathy that keep friendship alive, and that like bread cast upon the water return in dinner and week-end invitations

She should be a plumber who can fix a pipe when it springs a leak, an electrician who knows what to do when a fuse blows out, and a chauffeur who can run the family car without getting arrested for speeding or parking in the wrong place

And in addition to these useful accomplishments she will need to be such an efficiency expert that she can keep her household machinery running so smoothly that her husband thinks that she has nothing to do at all

It takes a liberal education to be just an ordinary, domestic woman, doesn't it?

Marry for Love, Not Money

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young woman 22 years old with a good office position My fiance is 23 I finished high school with average marks He did not He works in a filling station. He likes mechanics and tools. My parents object to my marrying him because he is not as well educated as I am, and because he is poor. They say he will never get up in the world and make a name for himself, and that I should look for somebody with more money. We are both too young to marry but we look forward to it We are Christian young people and neither of us dance, smoke or drink. Should I take my parents' advice and give him up and try to find some one with more money or should I let my love for him guide me and marry him? RUTH.

Answer:

Never give up the man you love in order to marry some one with more money Money can't buy married happiness And don't forget that the poor, industrious boy very often is the rich man at middle age.

Good Taste Today

DIAMOND RING

A young woman writes me that she has lately been wearing a two-stone diamond ring on the third finger of her left hand The point is that it is not an engagement ring, but was inherited from a relative. She says, "It hadn't occurred to me that possibly this left ring finger was supposed to be reserved just for an engagement ring, in a case where the wearer could be eligible, until the other day when I met a friend whom I hadn't seen for some time We hadn't been talking very long when she remarked, looking down at my hand 'Oh! Are best wishes in order?' When I said, "Oh, no, this was Aunt Jennie's ring," she was evidently embarrassed.

Since then, two others have looked at the ring, and I have said, "I'm not engaged It was my aunt's ring." But I am wondering if continuing to wear it is in bad taste. I have always worn another ring on the right hand, and since the knuckle on my right hand is larger than on the left, they don't fit the other way around."

Although wearing a ring on the left hand does not announce an engagement a solitaire would naturally suggest an engagement. Even so, it wouldn't necessarily be true If the rings would look just as well changed around, it is a very simple matter, not at all expensive, to have one ring let out and the other taken in

A Bride in Doubly Deep Mourning

Dear Mrs. Post A young friend has just lost both parents. She would like to announce her engagement now more than ever, and be married at Christmas We can certainly all understand why she wants to hurry her plans, but we don't know how much of an announcement of the engagement and what wedding plans may be made under the circumstances, and how much of a wedding may be had

Answer: According to best taste, announcements are properly made by the girl and man both sending notes to intimate friends, or telling them personally. Under the circumstances, a public announcement might better be omitted The announcement of marriage could be sent out by an aunt, if she has one, or an older member of the family, or, failing this, a very old friend of the bride's family — her mother's most intimate friend, for example To have a large announcement party, or a "big" wedding, would not do at all. But this does not mean that she may not have a lovely wedding and invite all the people she and the bridegroom care for. But it should be very simple. She can wear white and a veil, of course, and have a maid of honor, or possibly two bridesmaids instead of the maid of honor, but not more than that, and no invitations except by word of mouth.

As already said, wedding announcements may be sent out by the relatives or friends, or if she is in her mid or late twenties, she and her husband can announce it together as

and
Mr. John Henry Smith
etc.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "What Shall I Pack?" Be sure to send a three-cent, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Success Of Hand Based On 1st Trick

BY ELY CULBERTSON

LAST FRIDAY'S QUESTION

Question 22: You are East, defending against a three no trump contract. (Your side did not bid.) Your partner leads the diamond ace. Dummy comes down with the 6-3 of diamonds; you hold the J-8-2. What card do you play, and why?

Answer: The diamond jack. When defending against no trump, partner leads the ace of a suit not bid by you, he calls for your highest card in that suit. This is a standard convention (15 points demerit for playing the eight spot; 30 points for the deuce).

Today's Questions

Question 27: North-South vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	1 heart	Pass	?

You are South, and hold:

♠ A K 10 5 2 ♥ K 5 ♦ 6 3 2 ♣ K J 10

Question 28: You are East, defending against a three no trump contract, the bidding having gone:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Dummy.
♠ A J 2
♥ J 9 3
♦ A K 10 9 7

You [East].
♠ K 3
♥ A Q 10 8
♦ Q 5 3
♣ 6 5 4 2

West leads the five of spades, dummy ducks, you win with king, declarer plays the eight. What card do you return, and why?

♣ J 4

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	2 clubs	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	3 no trump	[final bid]

West opened the jack of spades and, upon seeing the dummy, South went into a short huddle. The contract obviously depended upon bringing in the club suit If the club finesse was "on," the contract could not be lost South's only problem, then, was to find a means of safeguarding the contract in the event the club king were in East's hand.

After some deliberation, South found the solution. He let the jack of spades hold the trick. His reasoning was sound: If he won the trick and lost the club finesse, a spade return would defeat the contract, but by refusing the trick, he made it possible to exhaust spades from the East hand if that player had started with only two The holdup play could not be dangerous since, regardless of the success or failure of the club finesse, South needed only one spade trick to fulfill his contract South's care was rewarded by the score for game and rubber. Had he given less thought to his play on the first trick, he undoubtedly would have lost the contract.

Beauty and You
By Patricia Lindsay

Few of the screen stars ever expected to be considered glamour girls and certainly none of their friends thought it would happen. That, my dears, is my text for today's beauty lesson! Perhaps you too are a potential beauty with glamour waiting to bloom once you resolve, "I am going to make myself beautiful."

Most compelling beauty is acquired. A girl may be born with a pretty face, naturally curly hair and a healthy constitution but she may grow into the dowdiest woman of her group, unless she determines to keep herself attractive. And on the other hand, many an ugly young duckling has matured into a glamour girl by simply going after beauty in earnestness.

During the winter season, particularly, I think most women want to be attractive. Old romances are freshened and new romances begun for the young. Social life becomes more important to the older woman during the next five months and feminine competition is keener. Every woman ardently desires to meet both challenges successfully, and she knows in her heart that keeping beautiful is an ace up her sleeve!

The Cinderella Game

We all love a Cinderella story—a tale of the transformation of a dud into a creature of rare loveliness. Not enough women realize that they can actually experience being a Cinderella transformed, but it is not accomplished by the touch of a magic wand. To polish up one's beauty and to create a little extra one needs to persevere in detailed grooming and freshen up mentally.

The Making Over

Many salon experts begin the refashioning of a drab woman with an exercise routine. I would begin differently. I would take her to an expert hairdreser to have a new coiffure suggested, and advise daily and weekly treatments for her scalp. Then I would trot her to a salon for a facial and manicure, and possibly a complete body massage.

By that time our subject would see the possibilities in herself and during a shopping tour for a new outfit she couldn't help but wish that her posture was more impressive and her figure more beautifully proportioned. That should resolve her to get busy the next day and postpone more wardrobe purchases until she had whipped her body into good condition.

The Final Step

Loveliness without more or less inspires loveliness within. One cannot look at one's reflection of a very attractive woman without feeling a bit proud The realization comes to one that if so little effort created so much beauty one should keep on persevering. There is one's voice to improve, one's mind to school, new fields to conquer And the fresh grip on life which a refashioning gives a woman affords energy to carry on in a new inspired way. In the end our modern Cinderella can get her Prince or his equivalent!

Case Records of a Psychologist
By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

What would you think if a mother smiled gleefully when her children engaged in violent quarrels like this one between Sally and Jimmy? If she proudly pointed out the battle, and looked upon it as a wonderful event, wouldn't you think her a little "tetched in the haid"? But despite the paradoxical sound of my statement, parents should actually be grateful for their youngster's quarrels. Only in this fashion will they be able to teach them to be unselfish adults and excellent marriage timber.

CASE S-111 Sally B., aged 11 is an attractive girl with long pigtails.

"I hope you'll not think Sally and Jimmy act like this all the time," her mother explained in some embarrassment when I was visiting in their home recently.

She referred to a free-for-all battle then taking place between Sally and her brother, who is 9. He was pulling her pigtails, while she had two firm hand holds in his hair and was pulling in both directions

What started the quarrel is immaterial. They arise frequently whenever children are together.

But Sally's mother need not have apologized to me, for I have five youngsters who get into verbal and physical conflicts every day

Be Proud Of Children's Quarrels

Sally's mother should really have sat back and smiled gratefully to see her youngsters quarrel!

That statement may sound like heresy to many of you parents, but it is true

For without quarrels in childhood, your children simply cannot learn to respect the rights and opinions of others They cannot grind off the jagged edges of their selfish, grandstanding personalities except upon the emery wheel of social contact.

When two pieces of metal rub together, friction ensues. Similarly, when two children rub elbows constantly, there is bound to be social friction. If there weren't, then you should suspect anemia, illness or some other dire cause for their Little Lord Fauntleroy behavior It is not natural or healthful for children to be meek, self-effacing persons.

How To Avoid Divorce

In a previous Case Record I have told you that it requires two women to keep a man out of the divorce courts. One is his mother, who should train him to be good marriage timber.

The other is his wife, who is supposed to shoulder her just share of domestic problems and continue the constructive moulding of his behavior where mamma left off.

Unless your children quarrel, you parents will not be so inclined to teach them self-control and mutual respect for others' rights

I cannot emphasize too strongly the fact that emotional immaturity is the primary cause of divorce. Egotistical grandstanders are emotionally but 8 or 10 years of age.

To grow into emotional maturity, a child must learn to live in close contact with other human beings of approximately his own age and thus absorb the give-and-take which is indispensable to a wholesome personality.

Insure Your Child's Marriage

The usual divorce is traceable to the parents of the participants in that marriage, for divorce starts before kindergarten age.

Happy marriages are NOT made in heaven. They are made during the childhood development of the parties thereto.

When our youngsters are good, Mrs. Crane and I have little occasion to point out lessons in morality and brotherly love. Only when they are in conflict do we stop our own work and adjudicate their problems. Conflicts therefore become teaching situations.

Despite their violent quarrels, moreover, the children afterwards remain under the same roof, sleep in the same house and sit down side by side at the same table.

They never think about packing up and moving in with one of their grandmothers. They learn to quarrel apologize, and go right on living together. Children without brothers and sisters miss this invaluable habit, so in marital quarrels they desert each other and go home to their parents.

9-Year-Old Is Mixture Of Good and Bad Traits

BY ANGELO PATRI

"What can I expect from a boy nine years old? I don't want to ask too much and I certainly don't want to ask too little."

I expect a varied and active day with a nine-year-old boy. First, he is not going to wash himself to the family standard of cleanliness. I expect to find a gray tint behind his ears, above his wrists and all over his hands. His nails will have rims. He won't think of taking a bath or of changing his clothes. He will be untidy and noisy, selfish in the use of family belongings. He will dislike chores, school, church, and any form of discipline.

He will be hungry most of the time. From his mother's point of view, his eating habits will be awful. He is a one-dish man and the dish is rarely what his mother would select. Steak, no vegetables. Dessert, no dinner. Hot dogs with lots of mustard, plenty of them, and the kraut into the waste can.

Manners Absent

His manners will be noticeable mainly because of their absence His voice will be loud, louder, loudest. His loyalty and affection will be measureless once they are bestowed.

And now it would be well to consider what one is to do for this beloved nuisance. He is the promise of a fine man and it is our privilege to help him accomplish his fulfillment. So we begin where he begins, in the morning.

He washes himself, dresses, puts his room in readiness for cleaning and bedmaking. Then he reports to his mother for inspection. She looks him over carefully, speaks well of the effort he has made and indicates how he can amend it She inspects his room and has him make good any oversights in the matter of picking up clothes, opening windows and turning back bedclothes She looks to see whether or not he took care of his soap, towel and washrag. Then she gives him his good breakfast and serves it with words of appreciation for his good deeds—IF possible.

He goes off to school in the best possible humor. He returns for lunch to find somebody, preferably his mother, waiting for him with a good word and a lunch that will not leave him heavy and dull for the afternoon but one that will fill him with a comforting warmth and a feeling of renewed strength He is a working citizen and needs food.

Welcome Him Home

When he gets home in the afternoon there is another welcome, a listening ear for his stories of trouble or joy and words of encouragement and admonition. A chore awaits his attention. Then play, free and uninterrupted until the call for the evening meal. Give him enough time to wash himself and to make a presentable appearance at the table.

After supper, father ought to take him on for a few minutes, talk to him and listen to him talk. Then homework in a quiet room When it is finished, and it should take no more than half an hour, father or mother ought to look it over Now a little space for the quiet enjoyment of home before bedtime preparations These include a bath and thorough grooming so as to be clean for the morning. Then prayers lights out and sleep.

There is no more rewarding labor than that entailed in caring for a little boy.

DINNER MENU

A boned and rolled chuck roast is an economy cut and one easy to carve Pot roasted and served with potatoes which have been cooked in the meat drippings, and gravy made from them, a chuck roast is savory enough for a company dinner.

Miss Schneider

With this meat plan to serve string beans, a plain sliced tomato salad with French dressing and a delicious chocolate cake with an unusual frosting.

The Menu

Rolled Chuck Roast With Browned Potatoes
Gravy
String Beans
Sliced Tomato Salad
Chocolate Peanut Cream Cake

Rolled Chuck Roast

Have the dealer bone, roll, and tie the chuck roast. When you get it home, wipe it with a damp cloth and dredge it with flour. Brown meat on all sides in hot fat and sprinkle with salt and pepper. When meat has browned thoroughly, cover it closely and cook on top of the stove at low heat, or in the oven at 325 degrees F. for 3 or 4 hours, depending upon the size of the cut. A four pound chuck roast is about right size for the average family. It will allow leftovers for meat pie, sliced cold meat, or some other second day dish. Add the potatoes about 45 minutes before the end of the cooking period.

Chocolate Peanut Cream Cake

2 1-3 cups sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
2-3 cup butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
2 egg yolks, unbeaten
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
¾ cup milk
1-3 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, soda and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each. Add chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla, then add boiling water, beating quickly and thoroughly. Bake in greased pan 12 by 8 by 2 inches in moderate oven 325 degree F. 50 minutes or until done. Spread Peanut Cream Frosting on top of cake.

Peanut Cream Frosting

2-3 cup butter
½ cup peanut butter
1 1-3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

Wash 2-3 cup butter in cold water to remove salt. Cream butter thoroughly, add 1 cup confectioners' sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy Add peanut butter, a small amount at a time, creaming well after each addition. Fold in remaining 1-3 cup confectioners' sugar and spread on cake.

Memory of the Moon
By Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Constance writes the Taylors that she intends to keep the ranch, but asks them to stay. She sets out for the West again.

Chapter 19

Carl Pedersen

Constance dreaded Christmas She drew a blind across her memories, had breakfast sent in so she wouldn't see so much reflected cheer; refused to look out when the train stopped at depots so she wouldn't have to watch reunions.

She'd read the letters. She opened them one by one Peter Taylor's decision slid out and Constance, putting the envelope to one side, checked her movement There was another slip of paper in it She pulled it out One line She read and re-read it.

"I'm glad you agree that when you are fighting for something you love . . . all is fair"

It was signed, Pedro

Fear that was part dread, part consternation, and part a heart strumming confusion, filled her.

What had he meant? Was John right? And if so, which of the two reasons underlay the Taylors' decision to remain"

"What a Christmas present," she laughed uncertainly.

Her heart and her mind waged a day-long battle and her mind won. The train slid through dusky white canyons at twilight, to come out in the star-burst of lights that was Ogden; and Constance, walking up and down under the train shed, admitted defeat, and wondered why she labeled it defeat

For if Taylor had meant to remain, as John had said, to "marry El Cabrillo" it was the ranch and not herself that he would fight for

Constance spent two days in San Francisco. Carl Pedersen presented himself the morning after her arrival When he telephoned from the lobby she went down with some apprehension. It would be this man and herself, against the Taylors . . . and the Cabrillos. She was placing the future of El Cabrillo in his hands

She noticed these hands immediately; large, strong, capable hands. She looked up to his face and liked what she saw, china blue eyes, blond hair and blunt features.

Mrs. Pedersen was with him, a large red haired woman who had surprisingly, Constance learned majored in English and was now an associate editor for a western magazine Constance wondered what Donna, with her smattering of education, would say to that. Small Pedersens waited in a nearby hotel; they would be met later

"You're so young," Mrs Pedersen said

"Old enough to know I'm too young, and that is why I need the help of a man like your husband," returned Constance, and won the woman immediately.

Pedersen wasted no time on niceties He launched immediately into business. "The only thing I have against your plan, Miss Cabrillo," he began, "is the time limit. You have a ranch upon which stock have grazed for two hundred years You expect to turn that into a dairy ranch of equal proportions and show profit in that time.

"You are not starting with slow replacement, but a complete turnover. I can't vouch that your fields will be fertile enough to produce our feed the first year. Thousands of cattle have torn the vitality from the soil. It will need deep ploughing and fertilizing.

"Then we have the weather to consider. If the elements are with us we stand an even chance of winning If we have droughts and floods, I don't know.

"You see I am being frank with you. Your proposition was a challenge to me. I'd like to have a try at it, but I don't want you to take me on thinking I am a miracle man."

'Happy New Year'

"I'm glad you've said that," Constance returned thoughtfullly. "It gives me even more confidence."

"And then," Mrs Pedersen intruded, "there is the problem of the personnel. The people with whom you and Carl will have to work," she explained. "Laugh if you will, but even a dairy farm, or perhaps I should say, particularly a dairy farm, needs harmony among the employees.

And blithely, unthinkingly and with complete unawareness Constance returned, "You can be assured of that"

They spent the rest of the day discussing affairs, the next day visiting creameries and association headquarters, then two days touring San Joaquin and Scaramento Valley dairy farms. Then they parted the Pedersens to go to Salinas to pack for their move north, and Constance to spend the loneliest New Year's Eve of her life in San Francisco

The north coast gave her one of its perfect days as she started for El Cabrillo the next morning. Tamalpais was a clear purple mound against a bright blue sky, and the railroad ferry waddled through bay waters as blue as the sky

The air was crisp, salty, invigorating. The northbound train filled with happy people, their laughter playing muted accompaniment to some irrepressible joy in the heart of Constance

Even Beachport, when she arrived there at noon had a festive appearance.

And waiting for her on the platform was Pedro!

Until that moment Constance hadn't known how she dreaded their first encounter, after that last half-hour on the mountain top; after John had hinted at Taylor's intentions; after all that remained unsaid between them.

She felt she would be putting him to test in this meeting and feared what she would find.

Warily she followed the porter to the vestibule, and from the top step looked down.

"Welcome, Michael," he greeted gaily.

He was glad to see her! He couldn't possibly assume that depth of warmth in his eyes. He was holding his arms and she . . . why must she be so foolish . . . she was thinking of John, wondering why she couldn't accept Taylor's touch with the same ease she accepted John's.

"Happy New Year, Pedro," she managed.

"The happiest one I've run into yet," he confirmed. "Here, porter. The bags over there . . . yes, that's right."

His concern over the bags gave her time to regain her poise, to pretend she had always had one hand tucked securely in Pedro's arm, to pretend the tightening pressure was because he was walking more rapidly than she and not overexuberance, on his part, at her return.

Now he was tucking her under a robe. The top of the car was down and he'd brought out a knit beret. "Meg made it to match your eyes," he said.

Constance changed, aware Pedro was talking too much. It wasn't natural for him to chatter. He was covering up . . . there was something he should be telling her and he wasn't. What was it?

"Disappointed?" he turned to look at her.

"Heavens, no . . . look out for that—" as a car darted ahead of them. "Of course not, but I thought Juliano would insist upon coming, and to be frank I didn't know the aTylors would appreciate my return to El Cabrillo."

Welcoming Mood

"Appreciate it?" laughed Pedro. "Dear child Meg has spent three days in the kitchen preparing for it You spent Christmas on the train so she's going to make up for it. And Dad" he laughed again, "he had me drive him to Beachport for a new suit; stood on his good leg while the tailor fitted him.

"He's been singing about Irish eyes, all morning"

Memory of the Moon

By Jeanne Bowman

"And yourself?" she asked.

They were driving along the coast road, the mountains green on one side, the sea glazed gold on the other.

"Michael," Pedro's voice was low "do you need to ask that?"

For fifty miles she didn't. For fifty miles she allowed herself to be lifted into the translucent world about her. She could have replied, "Forgive me, you're proving your welcome." Or gaily: — "I wanted to know if you could sing."

Instead she stretched her hand towards him impulsively and said simply—"No, Pedro." The answer lay in his grasp of her imprisoned hand. For this sort drive she would forget everything but the moment. She would draw each distilled drop of warm, disturbing joy for her own, and tuck it away to shed faint perfume on some distant, gary tomorrow.

Then she was home, on El Camino Real, the long lines of Eucalyptus trees, silver leaves still clinging, bark peeled from the trunks, leaving them pink and white and cold-looking.

And there ahead was the ranch house, yellowing willows, shaggy sparse leaves allowing the winter sunshine to wash the white walls.

"My trunks came, didn't they?" she asked. "And the keys? Then I'll stop and dress for Meg's dinner."

Pedro seemed about to protest. instead he drew up before the house and turned to her, his face serious, his voice apologetic — "Michael, after reading your letter, I . . . we, wanted to make your homecoming just that; a welcome after years of exile. We wanted everything perfect."

And isn't it?" she asked.

"No," he began, then he started to laugh. "No, it isn't. Juliano doesn't like milk coks. I'll wait here for you."

Constance looked at the house. No flowers hung from the balcony, though Dolores had assured her they were always brought out from the patio in sunshine. The blinds were drawn. There were no signs of life anywhere.

"You go on," she told Pedro. as he helped her from the car. "I'll take care of this!"

Pedro looked at the narrowing eyes, hesitated a moment, then as though reaching some inner agreement drove away.

Constance lifted the old iron knocker and dropped it. The echo died away, but no one opened the door. She tried again, then with a burst of anger tried the knob and flung open the door.

Buyers Step in After Early Dip On N.Y. Market

Forenoon Losses Are Cut or Wiped Out in Late Trade

New York —(AP)— An early stock market slide was halted today when buyers stepped in for selected steels, air transports and specialties.

The list extended yesterday's moderate decline by fractions to around a point at the start. Dealings slowed after a fairly active opening, then picked up again in the final hour when forenoon losses were cut or changed into modest advances. Closing trends were no worse than slightly irregular.

Transfers for the full session approximated 500,000 shares.

While the business picture still was a heartening influence for bullish forces, most financial contiguents inclined to keep speculative sails close-reefed pending more definite indications as to the course of the national election campaign and the European war.

Among better acting stocks were Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines, United Air Lines, Transcontinental and Western Air, Pan American Airways, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Great Northern, Santa Fe, Du Pont, Sperry, U. S. Rubber and Goodyear.

Motors were listless throughout despite word from Detroit that this week's automotive output was at the third highest weekly rate since 1937. The present week's production was put at 117,080 units against 114,672 last week and 78,120 a year ago at this time.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to off ¼ of a cent a bushel and corn down ⅛ to ⅜. Cotton, in late trades, was unchanged to 10 cents a bale lower.

Growing traffic for the airways companies, combined with forecasts of big earnings which, for the most part, may escape excess profits taxes, aided shares in this group.

Some notice was taken of tire corporation stocks as the rubber manufacturers association estimated September shipments of casings exceeded the August aggregated by 8 1 per cent.

In the matter of steels, attention was given remarks of chairman Girdler of Republic. He warned consumers not to create an artificial shortage of the metal by purchasing beyond their current needs, as he said some were doing. The official stressed that the nation's mill capacity was sufficient for all defense and other purposes if an orderly buying course is maintained.

Construed as favorable was the announcement of the department of labor that more than 600,000 persons went back to work from August to September. This indicated around 2,500,000 were added to payrolls during the February-September period.

BRITISH GUIANA

Among the plants are tree-ferns and giant water lilies. The water lilies have the largest leaves of any plants in the world. They spread out to a width of five feet or more, and rest on the surface of the water.

Bell-birds, parrots, toucans, puff-birds, trumpeters, jacanas and horned screamers are among the many forms of bird life.

Monkeys, tapirs and armadillos are common animals. Crocodiles live in and about the rivers, and so do the huge snakes called anacondas.

Other forms of river life in British Guiana are electric eels, sawfish and sharks. It is dangerous to swim in one of the rivers—if a person isn't snapped up by a crocodile or shocked by an electric eel, he may be crushed by an anaconda or cut up by sawfish.

If the Indians of that region need an excuse for not bathing, they have it so far as going into a river is concerned. Fact to tell, they are not at all famous for keeping clean!

The Indians travel about the rivers in the crude boats known as "dugout canoes." They also employ small craft made from tree bark.

The men earn their living almost entirely by hunting and fishing. Often they use the bow and arrow to shoot fish in the water. They carry blowpipes through the forest, and bring down birds and monkeys with poison-tipped darts.

Indian women of British Guiana sow seeds and care for crops. They raise sweet potatoes and corn, but their most important garden product is the cassava plant.

Cassava is as important to those Indians as wheat is to us, or rice to the Chinese. The root is the part which supplies food, and it is poisonous.

At some time in the past, the fact was learned that cooking and other treatment will destroy the poison in the cassava root. It then becomes fit to eat. The pulp is grated and spread on a hot stone, where it is cooked as a "pancake."

Here is another point about cassava. Starch taken from the root is turned into tapioca. Much of the tapioca sold in stores in our country comes from South America.
